BRITISH SEND 'NO' TO HITLER BUT LEAVE WAY TO PEACE OPEN

Report Hitler Willing to Let Duce Negotiate

Berlin Sources Claim Fuehrer Would Consent To Mediator; Reflects Plan To Deal With Poland Directly After Increasing Demands.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Adolf Hitler was represented in well-informed circles today to be willing to have some friend like Premier Mussolini of Italy mediate in Germany's dispute with Poland which has led Europe to the brink of war.

In rejecting direct negotiations with Warsaw the German chancellor disclosed that his demands on Poland not only included return of the Free City of Danzig and Pomorze (Polish corridor) but also vaguely implied he would insist on other "adjustments" at the expense of Poland.

In connection with suggestions that Premier Mussolini would be acceptable as a mediator, reliable sources said that Bernardo Attolico, Italian ambassador to Germany, is in frequent touch with Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

Hitler indicated in a reply to Premier Daladier of France made public early today, that he considered direct talks with Poland would be futile.

"I see no possibility for us on our part to exert influence in the direction of reasonableness upon Poland," the Fuehrer declared.

An insight into German aspirations in the east came from a letter sent by the Fuehrer to Premier Daladier of France in reply to Daladier's plea that Germany negotiate her differences with Poland directly.

Provoked By Daladier.

Hitler's letter was made public at a press conference in the propaganda ministry early today. This action was interpreted here as indicating Hitler was provoked by Daladier, for whom he has expressed personal admiration.

Hitler cited what he called "macedonian conditions" prevailing along other parts of the frontier, presumably Upper Silesia. The plain inference was that Germany has claims in this direction, too. Germans use "macedonian" as a synonym for "terrorist."

The demand on Poland definitely were increased, because Hitler had been on record before only for a "corridor through the corridor"—a strip of territory on connect Germany with Danzig and the isolated province of East Prussia.

The Fuehrer argued he was lenient with Poland.

He 'Shocked' Germans.

"I have made an offer to the Polish government which shocked the German people," he said. "Nobody but myself could even dare to go before the public with such an offer. It could therefore be made only once.

"I am deeply convinced that if especially England at that time had, instead of starting a wild campaign against Germany in the press and instead of launching rumors of a German mobilization, somehow talked the Poles into being reasonable, Europe today and for 25 years could enjoy a condition of deepest peace.

"As things were, however, Polish public opinion was excited by a lie about German aggression . . . The Polish government declined

How Day's Developments In Europe Add Up

For Peace

1—Great Britain, replying to Adolf Hitler's demand for a free hand to deal with Poland, tried to keep the door to negotiation open by drafting counter proposals.

2—Talk of a five-power peace conference spread in Rome where Premier Benito Mussolini was believed continuing his efforts to prevent a conflict but was discounted in other capitals.

3—Furious diplomatic exchanges continued in the big capitals, with reports current that the United States not only was being kept informed of developments but was consulted regarding a possible truce to facilitate negotiation of a settlement.

4—No time for military action had been definitely indicated.

For War

1—Adolf Hitler narrowed the ground for negotiation by publicly and officially demanding return to the reich of the Polish corridor as well as Danzig.

2—France officially announced that Hitler had rejected French proposals for peaceful settlement.

3—Both France and Great Britain stood firmly behind their pledges to aid Poland in event of an attack by Germany.

4—Upwards of 12,000,000 men were mobilized in Europe ready to strike while Germany and Poland redoubled their charges of frontier violations that might touch off a conflict.

Henderson Off To Berlin With Britain's Reply

Details of Answer Held Secret Until After Hitler Gets It, But Sources Indicate Nazis Told Threats of Strife Must Be Lifted First.

BULLETIN

BERLIN — (AP) — Adolf Hitler expects to receive Sir Nevile Henderson, the British ambassador, at 10 o'clock tonight (4 p. m. EST) to receive the reply of his majesty's government to Germany's proposals for a solution of the German-Polish war crisis.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Britain's ambassador to Germany, Sir Nevile Henderson, flew to Berlin this afternoon with a message to Adolf Hitler which informed quarters said re-affirmed the British intention to support Poland if she is attacked.

The details of the note were not disclosed, but it was reported to have said the first requirement for any negotiation of the Polish question was the removal of threats of force.

A second condition was believed to be that the immediate German-Polish quarrel must be separated from any negotiation of a general European settlement.

Sources close to the government indicated the message was of such a nature that a reply was expected from the German Fuehrer. This, it was believed, would forestall any decisive action until tomorrow at least.

Sir Nevile left by plane a few minutes before 5 p. m. (11 a. m. EST) and was expected to reach Berlin early in the evening.

Shortly before he left London, the government took a series of emergency steps, indicating the possibility of war was still considered "imminent" as Prime Minister Chamberlain said last week.

Reveal Answer Later.

An outline of Hitler's message and the answer was to be made public later in the day, probably soon after Hitler himself learns the contents of the British reply.

This and other circumstances led to a general belief in diplomatic quarters that the British message would prove to be an historic document intended both to impress Hitler and the whole world.

The unanimity of the British press on what the British government should tell Hitler at this critical hour indicated the cabinet had decided to stand firm on the policy already laid down by Prime Minister Chamberlain.

This is: Poland and Germany must themselves negotiate any settlement of their dispute: Poland is ready to negotiate on a basis of complete equality and when the threat of force is removed; Great Britain is ready to help create favorable conditions for a general European settlement, if Germany will make her contribution; but, finally, if Poland has to resist any vital threat to her independence, Great Bri-

PARIS: War, If It Comes, Still 3 Days Off, Knickerbocker Says

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(International News Staff Correspondent)

PARIS—Adolf Hitler requires another three to five days to bring his army on the eastern frontier up to striking strength, according to latest information received in Paris today by the authorities entrusted with the task of learning enemy movements.

Therefore, Hitler is not expected to begin a war before Thursday if he intends to begin it at all.

It is admitted that to obtain and transmit from Germany any information regarding troop movements at this moment is precisely as difficult as in war time.

Nevertheless, allied authorities believe that they know within 10 per cent the number and disposition of divisions of the German army.

According to these expert sources, Germany requires around 80 divisions at the Polish frontier in order to carry out Hitler's plan to crush Poland's 50 divisions in the shortest possible time.

Until today, however, German divisions on the Polish border number 35.

Hitler therefore, according to best military opinion in Paris, needs to move another 25 divisions east. Under the circumstances now prevailing in Germany, with all railroad and automobile transport monopolized by the army, it is estimated he could move 25 di-

WASHINGTON: U.S. Keeps All Wires Open to European Envoys

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt kept transatlantic telephone wires open today to America's two major ambassadors—Joseph P. Kennedy in London and William C. Bullitt in Paris. He awaited British and French reaction to German Fuehrer Hitler's latest demands.

For the moment there was neither official affirmation nor denial that President Roosevelt had been sounding out the other 20 republics of the western hemisphere with a view to making one final concerted peace appeal to the old world.

There was no mistaking the gravity with which the president viewed foreign developments. It was almost certain that London's action in studding its famous Hyde Park with anti-aircraft emplacements would decide Mr. Roosevelt to cancel the special train that was waiting tonight to take him back to his own Hyde Park home on the Hudson.

On the presidential desk, it was said, lay a call for a special session of congress—lacking only the familiar "Franklin D. Roosevelt" signature and withheld strictly until such time as war might be precipitated abroad. It was regarded certain that this would not go out unless actual conflict developed.

American observers, in view of Hitler's long note of proposition to French Premier Daladier, looked to London for the final answer on war or peace.

PRIZE DOGS SET FREE BY WRECK

10 Greyhound Racers Valued at $5,500 Unhurt as Trailer Upsets Near Lexington.

Two of ten prize greyhound racing dogs led their owners and several farmers in a merry chase through fields and woods, three miles south of Lexington on route 42 yesterday, when the trailer in which they were riding figured in an auto accident.

The dogs escaped injuries when the trailer and the car which was towing it, driven by Mrs. Ola Williams, 29, of Joplin, Mo., was sideswiped by an auto driven by Arthur Jacobs, 43, of Cleveland, state highway patrolmen reported.

Two of the dogs escaped from the trailer when it ran into a ditch and was wrecked. After a search of more than an hour, the dogs were found in a woods about a mile from the accident scene by a farm hand.

The dogs, all prize racers, were valued at $5,500, Mrs. Willams told patrolmen.

Patrolmen said both machines were traveling south and that Jacobs sideswiped the Williams car in an attempt to get back on the highway after losing control of his machine in passing another auto.

Riding with Mrs. Williams was her husband, Earl L., while there were three passengers in the Jacobs car, Mrs. Williams was the only person injured, suffering minor lacerations of the leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were en route to Florida with the dogs when the accident happened.

TEACHERS DEMAND PAY

POTTSVILLE, Pa.—(AP)—Pupils were turned away today, the start of the fall term, at seven Porter township schools because teachers said there would be no classes until they received "back pay in full."

LONDON—(INS)—A rumor that Premier Mussolini will broadcast a world-wide appeal for peace tonight was circulated from Rome today by the Exchange Telegraph company.

BOSTON—(AP)—National Commander Eugene I. Van Antwerp told the 40th convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars today that "we might as well accept the fact America will inevitably be forced to take part when another world war gets underway." "We know from experience that belligerents have no respect for the right of neutrals," he declared.

Netherlands Mobolize Army, Navy

AMSTERDAM — (AP) — The Netherlands proclaimed the general mobilization of its army and navy today. The Netherlands had about 130,000 men under arms prior to the mobilization orders. The first act of mobilization should add 114,000 men to the army or make about 244,000 all told.

WARSAW—(INS)—Unanimous conviction that Germany has lost Europe's "war of nerves" and that real conflict hangs in the balance was expressed by Warsaw newspapers today. Numerous frontier incidents were reported, especially from the Carpathian area.

Billion In Gold On Way To U. S.

PARIS—(INS)—A billion dollars in gold bullion is being sent to New York today aboard the liners Washington, New Amsterdam, Veendam, President Roosevelt, and Empress of Australia.

RURAL SCHOOLS' OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Financial Condition for Start of New Term Best in Years as $50,000 Arrives.

Richland county rural schools received $50,559 today from the state, providing a brighter financial outlook for the opening of the new term than at any time in recent years.

In addition to the state money, the rural districts will have several thousand dollars in county tax funds available next month after the property tax collection period closes.

The state funds, allocated under the school foundation program, represent the third quarterly distribution of money by the state. It also marked the first time in more than three years that the state has paid its obligations to the rural schools.

The distribution of funds, based on the school district's enrollment, gave Madison township $7,581, more than any other county district. Other allocations included: Bellville, $7,150; Lexington, $6,543; Butler village, $6,381; Springfield township, $5,369; Union rural, $4,240; Cass township, $4,217; Plymouth, $3,843; Lucas, $3,312; Mifflin township, $1,097; Washington township, $812.

SQUALUS RISES

Sunken Sub With The Dead To Be Towed 10 Miles Further.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—(AP)—The submarine Squalus and her cargo of 26 dead men were brought to the surface today in the last of three lifts that raised her by easy stages from the 40 fathoms of water in which she sank 97 days ago. She will be towed 10 miles to shore.

Buoyed by air pumped into her 295 foot hull and into two pontoons by the salvage ship Falcon, the submersible rose from a depth of 90 feet and "broke" the surface less than an hour after blowing operations started.

WARSAW: Border Raids Peril Thousands Fleeing Polish Cities

(By United Press)

WARSAW—Increasing tension along the Polish-German frontier today aggravated the plights of thousands, including many Americans, who were seeking transportation out of the country.

The government reported that German patrols had three times raided the Polish border and had been repulsed and that three Polish consulates in Germany had been isolated by police and two Polish high schools raided, the teachers and older boys being carried away in trucks. Reprisals were being considered.

Because of tightened restrictions on the German side, notices were put up in Warsaw railway stations informing refugees that Poland could not be responsible if they were permitted to cross into the Reich.

The western border was gradually being closed by new restrictions. There was no through traffic on the main railway line to the north by way of Zbaszyn, where the Germans closed the frontier yesterday.

Rumors were current all morning that airplane service to Copenhagen by way of Gdynia would be suspended, but airways officials denied them.

Thousands of refugees attempted to make last minute changes in their schedules to the more roundabout route by way of Riga

DANZIG: Free City Circled By Guns, Wire; Schools Closed

(By United Press)

DANZIG—All schools were closed today. Many teachers had been conscripted into the army and schoolhouses were needed for barracks.

This "free port area" was completely ringed with guns and barbed wire, and its leaders awaited only the signal from Adolf Hitler to deliver it to the reich and fight off Poland until German troops came to the rescue.

It was estimated that 20,000 Danzig men with shining new equipment were guarding the 75-mile frontier facing the Polish corridor. On the other side were the troops and guns of German East Prussia.

Danzig authorities, all Nazis, took over railroad stations at Hohenstein, Treyl and Kaiserhaven, charging that Poles had tried to ship contraband munitions. Poland is supposed to control Danzig railroads.

It was reported that men and equipment of the German army was moving into Danzig from East Prussia.

The bulk of incoming German troops would be from the garrison at Elbing, in East Prussia, and would cross a new pontoon bridge at Kaesemark, which was guarded by machine guns. Travelers reported a large concentration of German airplanes at Elbing.

Complexion Suffers From Arguments

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I can't remember whether Dante put a quarrelsome family in one of the lower depths of his "Inferno" or not, but other men have done so.

The Alimony club, founded by a distinguished sculptor in the Tombs prison, to avoid money squabbles, had many notable names among its members. And a day or two ago another citizen expressed his preference for jail over a wrangling household. He had been paroled, but he asked the parole board to return him to Sing Sing to finish out a two years and ten-months sentence.

The man was William F. Logan, 37 years old, of the Bronx, formerly a policeman, who was found guilty of manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident, for which he was sentenced to serve from two and a half to five years for his crime.

Being a model prisoner, he was paroled. But the arguments that went on in his home made Sing Sing prison seem a haven of rest in comparison. He made known to Parole Commissioner Joseph J. Canavan that the emotional strain, caused by family difficulties, induced him to ask for a continued jail sentence.

He was ordered to pay $12.00 a week to his family, and he did better by three dollars, giving them $15.00, but declined to reenter the argumentative home. Now Mrs. Logan is suing for divorce.

Whether Dante did or did not put a quarreling household in the depths of his "Inferno," it belongs there all right, and is accountable for not a little crime in this country. All officers of juvenile courts know that children leave home and indulge in petty crimes, from which they major into serious ones, when there is quarreling at home.

It begins to look now as if a panacea for this most ancient of family disturbances — remember the case of Cain and Abel?—is at hand. There's a new kind of beauty priestess abroad in the land. She calls at the house and claims to make you lovely at $5.00 a throw.

I have never seen personally one of these officiators at the rites of transformation of age into youth, homeliness into beauty, but I talked at length to one of them on the telephone who begged for the names and addresses of my correspondents. Needless to say, she did not get them. Here's the procedure—

The lady first demands your "really truly" age, stating if she doesn't get at the root of this vital statistic, she can't help you as much as if she knew the actual date on which the stork deposited you. Then she wants to know if your hair is dyed, restored, or if the first few graying hairs have been plucked out. She demands to know what kind of cosmetics you use, and suggests pitching them all away in favor of some of her own.

But most important of all—do-you-quarrel-at-home? If you admit you do, or say that you feel like quarreling at times but refrain, she says unless you abandon contentious thoughts she will not take you as a patient—even at $5.00 a lesson.

Then she grows eloquent. Quarreling at home, she says, is more destructive of beauty and youth than any other pernicious agency. You must smile and have love in your heart, even if you've caught your husband lunching with another lady. She even goes the length of suggesting stifling a curse with a kiss. But I think a lady who practiced that would have to be pretty good at dodging.

Here's a tea treat—spread butter on round crackers, top them with marshmallows, indent the tops of each and fill with raspberry jam or orange marmalade. Brown and serve warm.

Ornamental upright trees

By DEAN HALLIDAY

A frequent request from readers is: "What shall I plant to replace poplar trees which are dying?" The Lombardy poplar was at one time one of our most popular ornamental trees, due to its columnar form. But it is a short-lived tree, and the same effect in plantings can be obtained by using the larch or Ginkgo trees.

Figure 1 in the accompanying Garden-Graph shows the foliage of the larch. The larches are deciduous conifers (bearing cones) and are exceedingly attractive in the spring, when they put forth soft pale green shoots. Larches can be planted in large masses for a screen or windbreak, or as single specimens, and can also be used as accent points because of their stately form.

Figure 2 shows the foliage of the Ginkgo or Maidenhair tree. Ginkgo is exceedingly picturesque and the effect of its upright branches suggests the Lombardy poplar. The leaves of the Ginkgo tree turn a lovely golden yellow in the autumn. It is a fine lawn tree and will flourish in congested city streets. It grows well when planted singly or in small groups.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

LILLIAN gave me no chance to comment upon her somewhat cryptic remark. She was out of the room by the time the last words of the admonition had left her lips, but though I dutifully drained my cup, the beverage I enjoy so much might have been the most unpalatable brew ever concocted as far as any taste of mine was concerned.

I knew very well from long experience of my friend's little ways that she would not have made the prediction unless she had cause for it. And that meant more mystery—more romance—and the patent fact that I was to be involved in it could mean only one thing, that Dicky was in danger. Otherwise, neither Lillian nor my father would have consented to my leaving Mary for any appreciable length of time, for Lillian, with her wide experience and her marvelous resourcefulnes, is far better equipped to aid my father than I am.

Lillian Returns.

I pushed back my drained coffee cup, directed Nellie to clear the table and turned my chair toward the barren little garden, watching it with unseeing eyes, for I was striving for an excuse to get rid of Nellie without the necessity of making any comment. It seemed to me that my throat muscles were so constricted with vague fear that I could not utter a sound.

But I found my voice quickly enough when, after a few minutes, Lillian came back into the room.

"Your father is all right," she said. "I have told him you are here, and he is anxious to see you, so come arunnin'."

Father in Armchair.

If I did not exactly obey her injunction, I was able to keep pace with her as she hurried back to the room where we had left my father the night before.

To my surprise, he was sitting up in an armchair, with a table before him on which was the light breakfast which is his invariable rule, fruit juice, toast and coffee. He looked up at me, and though he was pitifully emaciated and there were deep rings around his eyes, there was something about him which told me that his indomitable spirit had once more conquered illness and its consequent physical weakness.

The physician was nowhere to be seen, and my father smiled a bit sardonically at Lillian as she looked blankly around the room.

"I dismissed my medical adviser," he said, "and I fancy he was glad to get rid of so troublesome a patient. For your information, however, I will tell you that he pronounced me fit for work within reason."

Lillian wrinkled her nose at him saucily.

Will Check Advice.

"That probably means," she said, "that he has a lot of prohibitions for you as long as your arm. I'll call him a bit later and see, for with Madge to back me up, I'm going to ride herd on you. But just now I'm glad you're able to sit up and take nourishment. You'll need it when I tell you what has happened since we saw you last night."

Her tone was light and bantering, but it did not deceive my father. He put down his coffee cup—Lillian had cannily waited to make her announcement until she was sure he had finished his breakfast—and looked at her with attentive inquiry.

"I am listening," he said with quiet authority, and she plunged at once into the saga of the night before, from the first queer message for Mary, to our return to the hotel after rescuing Noel, and our certainty that the men in the other car were still on Jack Leslie's trail.

My father did not once interrupt her. With his hands resting on the table before him, and his fingertips tapping each other rythmically in a gesture characteristic of him when he is deeply interested, he listened until she had finished. Then he put a single quetsion, just as a knock sounded on the door.

"And you say those men have not yet reported to you?" he asked.

"Not unless that's a message from them now," she said as she walked toward the door.

Exercise In Right Way For Health

By MME. QUI VIVI

To be high spirited, in good health, one must have wholesome fun. No woman who carries the hod up and down the ladder all the day long, never cracks a smile, can hope to get in the beauty race. She is out before she starts. Many of these women don't have to drudge all the time, they just think they must. They pounce upon a raveling on the floor, they tear the house to pieces every week, and what has life to offer them? When their children get old enough, they run away from home. If mother had let the dishes stand while she played ball with the kids, or toted them off for picnics now and then, they couldn't bear to be away from her.

The woman who has fallen into a rut of driving domestic duties will develop a different viewpoint if she will seek healthy fun, if she will have exercise in the open air. We all need play, we all need laughter. And when exercise is a recreation instead of a stern duty it brings richer rewards because it has a stimulating, uplifting effect upon the mind.

The gay, alive Diana who loves outdoor life, whether it be swimming or sailing, tennis or golf, or just tramping through the woods, never suffers from mental lethargy or spiritual drowsiness. She finds life zestful. All that shows upon her face. She comes into a room like a freshening breeze.

When the blood cells are dancing a quickstep, as happens when one is using one's muscles, the skin is attending to its work as an organ of elimination, bears pretty flushes on the cheeks. Lips are red, eyes aglint. The inner organs are benefitted by the stimulation of tissues and fibres. Let the demon housewife think of that and scramble out of her ditch of everlasting routine. The mistress of the house is its chief ornament. Better that she look fresh and beautiful than have her house shipshape. The smart woman will find ways and means of keeping herself and her home in topnotch condition.

Unless one has fun, one gets snarly and irritable, what is worse, one feels sorry for oneself. You don't have to have lots of money to be merry. Just a working philosophy, horse sense and an inclination to find life jolly and interesting.

Home should not be a treadmill or a prison. It should be a refuge for every member of the family. Freedom of conduct, much gaiety. Tired, worn women, on the verge of tears because of a monotonous existence, turn the gloom on the whole family.

One way to be beautiful is to be healthy and happy. For health fresh air and strong fibers are necessary. Sunshine puts pep in the heels and spirits. The world's worst grouch will respond to its vitalizing influence.

Be a play girl. You'll be a better work girl. And, glory be, how much better you will look!

For a novel summer dessert make cake fruit sandwiches, using sponge or angel food cake for the slices and fresh fruits or berries for the fillings. Spread top and sides with a light frosting, whipped cream or sherbet.

For a new flavor to veal or lamb chops, soak a clove of garlic for several hours in half a cup of French dressing. Pour it into a shallow dish, and dip in 6 chops. Broil or bake. No additional seasonings will be needed.

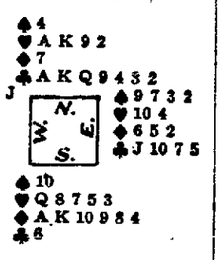
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

QUITE AN OBSTRUCTION

What an obstacle a pre-emptive bid for four is if it happens to be in the Spade suit! It crowds the opponents into having to bid five in anything else, and sometimes makes it impossible for them to find what is the best contract for their combined strong holdings. If the partner of the pre-emptive bidder has a good fit for Spades in an otherwise weak hand, and takes it to five over an intervening call, that makes it tougher still for the poor strong opponents.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

There were tables at which South passed this hand with its powerful distribution, but at most of them 1-Diamond was bid. Over this the canniest Wests immediately called 4-Spades. Where the best bidding was done, North then bid 5-Clubs. East in one of these spots was smart enough to realize that there was slight chance of defending this, especially since he held so many spades the opponents were pretty likely to be short. He therefore bid 5-Spades, got doubled and went down four tricks for a loss of only 700 points.

Where East failed to catch the ball and passed 5-Clubs, South bid 5-Hearts and North took it to six, making it for a score of 1430.

If South bids 1-Spade, West 3-Hearts, North 4-Diamonds, East doubles, South 4-Hearts, North 6-Spades and East doubles, what should West lead and why?

Feel Like Different Person Since I Have Taken 'Vendol'

Columbus Glass Worker Declares It Took Famous Root, Herb and Alkaline Medicine Only a Short Time to Relieve Constipation; Then Pains in Back and Legs Departed Along with Other Troubles.

MR. JACK P. STEWART

The gratitude of thousands of former sufferers has been publicly expressed for the wonderful relief brought them by the famous Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine, Vendol.

Each published statement rings with the sincere desire to let other sufferers know that this compound is a medicine of unequalled worth. They tell how Vendol quickly relieved constipation, and then the tortures of acid, nervous indigestion, bilious headaches, dizziness, coated tongue, spots before the eyes, muscular aches and pains, nervous, broken sleep, and other weakening inorganic disturbances were relieved. For instance—

Mr. Jack P. Stewart of 540 E. Whittier St., Columbus, Ohio, recently told how he was relieved by Vendol after disappointment from everything tried. "My entire body seemed full of toxic poisons due to constipation, which made me miserable. I had pains through the small of my back and down into my legs that were so bad at times I couldn't rest well at night. I would awaken feeling bilious, dizzy, and my head felt dull and heavy. I had a poor appetite and most everything I ate disagreed with my stomach, formed gas and sour, acid risings came up in my throat.

"Vendol relieved my constipation so wonderfully that now I feel cleansed and refreshed and like a different person, with no dread of bilious, dizzy spells, headaches, or indigestion. The backache and leg pains are all gone, and I have a grand appetite; get restful sleep every night. Vendol is a real blessing to sufferers from troubles like I had, and I advise everyone to give it a chance to help them too."

Start on this famous medicine today, and see how quickly you too begin to feel better. See the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store Cor Main and Fourth Sts., and he will tell you all about this remarkable medicine and what it can do for you. Leading druggists everywhere sell and recommend Vendol. —Adv.

Cleveland Records First Air Race Speed Test Death

PILOT KILLED AS PLANE GOES INTO TAILSPIN

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Col. Roscoe Turner of Chicago today negotiated the Thompson trophy course at Cleveland airport in the fastest time ever established for a closed course—an average speed of 297.767 miles an hour.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND — Despite the fatal crash of a racing plane yesterday, at least two top notch racing pilots planned to take off at Cleveland municipal airport today in efforts to qualify for events in the National Air Races, Sept. 2, 3, and 4.

Involved in the fatal crash was Delbert D. "Don" Bush, 26, of Kansas City, whose rebuilt red Folkerts special went into a spin and crashed from approximately 1,000 feet near the airport yesterday. Bush was instantly killed.

Turner to Fly.

The pilots planning qualifying trials are Col. Roscoe Turner, of Chicago, winner of last year's Thompson trophy race, and Tony Levier of Los Angeles, winner of the Greve trophy race last year. Turner planned to qualify his ship for the Thompson, world's fastest closed course race, and Levier hoped to qualify for both the Greve and the Thompson

The Thompson is for ships of unlimited power, while the Greve race is limited to planes with engines of 549 cubic inches displacement or less.

In addition to Turner and Levier, Harry Crosby of Los Angeles, who crashed in last year's Greve race, indicated he might attempt to qualify today.

To qualify for the Greve a ship must fly two ten-mile laps at a speed of not less than 220 miles per hour. For the Thompson, ships must fly two laps at 240 or more.

Bush, making his first appearance at the National Air Races, had taken off on a test hop when his engine started sputtering.

He attempted to climb so that he could cut back toward the field for a landing, but his engine quit entirely and he went into a spin.

Witnesses said he pulled out of the spin, only to go out of control again and crash in a woods three-quarters of a mile from the airport.

The plane was rebuilt after it was scratched last year when it developed a wing flutter in test flights.

Thanksgiving Day To Be Nov. 30 For These 2 Campaigns

Thanksgiving Day will be Nov. 30 this year as far as the Red Cross and Christmas Health Seal organizations are concerned, leaders of the two groups announced today.

President Roosevelt recently moved up the date of the annual observance to Nov. 23.

For years Thanksgiving has been the dividing line between the campaigns the organizations conduct annuallly. The Red Cross Roll Call starting on Armistice day (Nov. 11) and ending on Thanksgiving. The Health Seal sale begins Dec. 1 and runs through the month.

Dr. Robert G. Patterson, executive secretary of the Ohio Public Health association at Columbus, who has held conferences in Mansfield a number of times, said that the original dates had been agreed upon early in June by the national heads of the two organizations, and that both organizations believed they should adhere to these dates, regardless of the face that the president has set Thanksgiving for Nov. 23.

In years to follow, officials said, the "question will be treated on its merits," but for this year Nov. 30 will be the dividing line between the two campaigns.

Mrs. Marshall was born in this city, May 10, 1915, and spent her entire life in Mansfield. The survivors include a daughter, Wanda Jean; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gail Fisher; a brother, John Fisher, and a sister, Mrs. Jack Finfgeld of Mansfield.

Up and Down THE STREET

Back in his native Mansfield for the first time in 24 years, W. H. Greenfield, a marine engineer on a supply ship to Alaska, is finding a lot of changes in the home town. Greenfield left Mansfield 38 years ago and had been back for only an hour's visit since then. Located at Seattle, Wash., he is on the sea most of the time. His boat delivers food, clothing and medical supplies to schools and hospitals along the Alaskan coast. While in Mansfield he is visiting Clyde Constance, a relative, on the Newville road.

Rufus H. King, West Second street, is the owner of a dog, but not a particularly "proud owner," even though Tizzie Mish is a perfectly good wire haired terrier. When Mansfield Elks planned their annual summer outing this year, someone suggested raffling off a dog and when there were some misgivings, "R. H." said that if the person who won it didn't want the dog, by golly, he'd take it himself. And that's how he acquired Tizzie. Right now he's looking for a quiet, "cultural" home for Tizzie.

Mansfield was host unofficially to several troops of Kentucky Boy Scouts yesterday who stopped here en route home from the New York World's fair. As far as Park Superintendent Frank Burton was concerned, however, they never did arrive, as they failed to take advantage of the camp site at Middle park which had been reserved for them.

The Old-Timers' Baseball association held its annual picnic and ball game at Spiker's grove Sunday but it was the youngsters who stole the show. This happened because not enough of the veterans cared to take part in the game. Carl (Fireman) Maul's first pitch to his son, Bud, resulted in a home run, and Bob Boyd, another son of an old-timer, also hit for the circuit as Jeff Holmquest's young Wildcats defeated Maul's team, 4 to 3. The old-timers who did play were a little worse from wear today with sore muscles quite prevalent in their ranks.

2 FIRE ALARMS

Damage Slight in Week-End Blazes, Report.

City firemen responded to two alarms over the week-end in which damage was slight in both cases, they reported today.

Companies Nos. 1, 2 and 4, were called to the home of Mrs. Dorothy Williams, 171 Wayne street, at 5:30 a. m. today when a blaze was discovered in a downstairs living room. The fire was believed to have been started by a lighted cigaret.

At 9:15 p. m. yesterday companies Nos. 1 and 2 were called to the Burghard cafe, 14 West Fourth street, to extinguish a fire which started in the basement. Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger said he believed the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion of some rubbish.

DEMS HIT SNAG ON REFERENDUM

Need 120,000 More Signers by Next Week on Civil Service Action.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Democratic county chairman were reported today to have found serious obstacles to the plan to force a referendum on the Bricker administration's civil service reorganiaztion bill.

An unofficial tabulation at a meeting of the county leaders disclosed, it was said, that about 120,000 additional signatures must be obtained on referendum petitions before the deadline next Tuesday to put the bill on the ballot for a popular vote in November.

It was reported that 25,000 signatures obtained thus far do not include any from Cuyahoga or Franklin counties where the number obtained might boost the total considerably.

Former Democratic State Chairman Francis W. Poulson agreed to take the responsibility for raising $2500 to finance the referendum campaign in its closing days.

Chairman Arthur L. Limbach was absent on military duty at Fort Knox, Ky., former Gov. George White presided.

Limbach's absence prompted Allen county Chairman Francis W. Burbin, Lima, to remark that "if Aart Limbach finds his National Guard connections interfering with his duty as head of the Democratic state organization, he should resign from the National Guard and give this fight his personal attention."

MANSFIELDER HURT AT WILLARD ONLY RICHLAND TRAFFIC VICTIM

A Mansfield woman, seriously injured in a traffic accident Sunday afternoon near Willard, was Richland county's lone traffic victime over the week-end. There were no accidents reported within the county, but at last nine prsons died in mishaps in the state.

State highway patrolmen said the two cars collided head-on at a curve on U. S. route 224, one mile south of Willard, when Shidaker allegedly attempted to pass another car.

The accident occurred about 2:30 p. m. as the Kauffmans were en route to Mansfield after visiting Mrs. Kauffman's parents in Ann Arbor.

At Ashland, Ford Lindeman, 6, of Hudson, O., suffered a deep cut on his head Sunday afternoon when he ran in front of a car while attending a picnic at Brookside park. Russell Swope, Ashland, was driving the car.

The state's major traffic crash claimed two lives and resulted in injuries to six other persons early today on route 36, five miles east of Delaware.

A passenger car and a truck collided head-on at the top of a hill, killing Gazar Basmajin, 17, driver of the car, and Robert Kelly, 16, both of Columbus.

BOTH INCREASE

Rural Births and Deaths Go Up During July.

Births and deaths in Richland county, exclusive of Mansfield and Shelby, both showed increases during July, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, told the county board of health Saturday at its monthly meeting.

During July 23 births were recorded as compared with 17 for the month previous to bring the total for the year to date to 131. Deaths rose from 17 in June to 19 last month for a total of 144 for the first seven months of the year.

Dr. Rehder reported that communicable diseases in the county showed a slight decrease during the month with 11 cases reported to the health department as against 15 for June.

GENERAL GETS CALL TO HEAD NEW MINISTERS

New Cabinet Sought After Old One Resigns Because of Soviet-Nazi Pact.

(By United Press)

TOKYO — The emperor summoned Gen. Nobuyuki Abe today presumably to ask him to form a cabinet in succession to that of Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, which resigned because of the change of policy necessitated by the Soviet-German non-aggression pact.

Gen Abe was formerly vice-minister of war He is generally believed to favor closer co-operation between Japan and third powers, particularly the United States and Great Britain.

In the midst of the cabinet change, heavy fighting between Japanese and Russian forces was reported on the Manchukuo-outer Mongolian frontier.

Troops Cross Border.

It was asserted that 5,000 Russian troops had crossed the Khalka river on the frontier and that Japanese troops were attempting to encircle them. Dispatches said that the biggest artillery duel since border clashes started was now in progress.

News of the fighting came immediately after the resignation of the cabinet as the result of Germany's non-aggression pact with Russia.

Japanese had expressed concern lest Russia attack in the far east because it now felt secure in the west.

Japanese dispatches asserted that 130 Russian tanks and 19 Russian airplanes had been destroyed by Japanese gunners.

The seriousness with which Japanese viewed the situation resulting from the Nazis-Communist pact was apparent.

A United Press dispatch from Hong Kong disclosed officially that Japanese troops had begun to withdraw from the Hong Kong border today.

Seven Japanese transports arrived off Tamtau during the night, the dispatch said, and immediately began to embark troops.

A United Press Shanghai dispatch reported from an authoritative source that Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, commander in chief of the Japanese China fleet, had sent a written apology to Admiral Thomas C. Hart, American commander in chief, for the beating by Japanese soldiers at Hankow inflicted on an American navy petty officer in July.

Changing their pleas to guilty, two Mansfielders who were involved in the robbery of a Park avenue east filling station June 14 were sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary today by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston who placed a third member of the group on probation.

Sentenced to the pen for one to 15 years were Claire Enlow, 31, of 130 East Third street, and Albert Reister, 38, who gave his address as the Mansfield Club hotel.

Walter Wright, 32, of 140 North Main street, was placed on probation for four years. The trio pleaded guilty to charges of assault with intent to rob. They were indicted for robbery by the grand jury two weeks ago and last Monday pleaded innocent when arraigned before Judge Huston. They agreed to change their pleas after the charges were reduced to assault with intent to rob.

Arraigned on an indictment for non-support, Walter Clark, Mansfield, pleaded guilty, but sentence was deferred to permit further investigation of the case.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Saratoga Citizens In a Dither --- Mayor Refuses To Abide By Tradition

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

SARATOGA SPRINGS—There is a dangerous undercurrent to civic indignation in Saratoga as the racing season approaches its last week and the gambling rooms of the region remain dark due to the sinister influence of the district attorney, a Republican by the name of Alfred Simon.

This is the second successive summer that Mr. Simon has placed Saratoga under a scourage of strict law enforcement, and he still has one year to go, unless he can be removed from office for his flagrantly unAmerican conduct or enjoined by some combination of bad government Leagues and societies.

* * *

The local public is aroused, because gambling is one of the principle industries of Saratoga, and never before has the law been enforced for one summer in succession, much less than two. In fact, it is doubtful that it ever was fully enforced for as long as one night in succession prior to the regrettable election of Mr. Simon, because in those days it was customary to blockade only one or two institutions at a time and rotate the law enforcement among them all.

Mr. Simon, however, has taken the law into his own hands, as you might say, and has been riding roughshod over the very wellsprings of Saratoga's sacred heritage, for which the founding fathers shed their blood on the battlefields beyond the city a long time ago. He has raided some fine old institutions in the outskirts, and a detective has been suspended from the local force because somehow some gambling tools, including three wheels and a bird-cage, became lost or mislaid in transit from the premises where they were seized to the local police station.

* * *

In view of the fact that such tools usually become lost or mislaid in such circumstances, not only here but everywhere else in the United States, this procedure has come to have the force of legal custom. Therefore, it is the view of the local patriots that the sinister Mr. Simon has suddenly changed the rules of the game, which would be contrary to the American tradition of fair play.

Moreover, the citizens are particularly sensitive, because this is the 75th, or diamond, jubilee of the racing and gambling industries in Saratoga and they feel that he has gone out of his way to show contempt for some fine old 100 per cent American traditions, not the least of them being the sacred tradition that laws were made to be broken.

If Mr. Simon had revealed his true character during his campaign he would have been crushed by a great uprising of the patriotic spirit. However, candidates for the office of district attorney always had used the slogan "crime must go!" As far back as anyone can remember, and nobody had any way of knowing that Mr. Simon, when elected, would introduce alien ideas unrer cover of a harmless motto.

* * *

Last year, after two weeks of Mr. Simon's tyranny, the taxicab drivers held a protest parade demanding that he be restrained from interfering with an industry which provided them and many other townsmen with milk for their innocent babies. Stickers were printed and pasted around town reading "we want action in August, not relief in December," and labels bearing some protest were attached to loaves of bread and other groceries.

Mr. Simon was accused of starving little children, and feeling ran so high that it was thought that surely he would respect the decent opinion of the community this year. But this year he has been more un-American than ever, and it is now openly charged that he has flatly refused to accept bribes or submit to any kind of political pressure — two allegations which in Saratoga, as in Miami, would seem sufficient to cause his impeachment if they could be proved.

* * *

Mr. Simon obviously is riding to a great fall, for any reform candidate promising to do away with law enforcement will be sure to defeat him when he comes up for re-election, but in the meantime he has another season to go, and it is by no means certain that public fury can be held within bounds through another such spell as this one.

He is a terrible embarrassment to the Republican party, too, and oldtime regular Republicans, steeped in Americanism, privately disown him and insist that he probably is a secret New Dealer with a mission to discredit the G. O. P.

* * *

Mr. Simon, on his part, just says he is enforcing the law according to his oath and his campaign promises and refuses to admit that his own interpretation of the law, his oath and his promises is contrary to the spirit of true Americanism. This only makes the honest citizens of Saratoga wilder, because it is a plain implication that their own brand of Americanism, which reverses the ancient Saratoga custom of law violation, is not the authentic type. It is felt that he double-crossed the electorate in his campaign because in repeating the ancient slogan "crime must go!" he did not say "positively."

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Rouben Mamoulian, the director, came back to his office between sessions of musical scoring on "Golden Boy," and he started talking, right away, about musical backgrounds in pictures.

"I think we've got something interesting here," the tall, black-haired young director behind the big horn rim specks said. "You know the story—the boy who is both violinist and prizefighter. We're putting the conflicts into the score—the themes of fine violin music alternating or fighting with the oom-pa-oom-pa of jazz, representing Manhattan life into which the boy is thrown."

* * *

"There's dramatic effect," he said, "in the use of music. But there's just as great drama in silence. Reminds me of the story of the old light-house-keeper who lived alone in his tower. Every morning at 3 o'clock a shore cannon would boom. The old man slept right through it. But one morning at 3 he woke up with a start. 'The cannon didn't go off,' he cried. 'What's the matter!'

"When I have an important scene I don't want the audience to follow, even subconsciously, a musical theme—I want them to be entirely attentive to that scene, its action, its dialogue."

Mamoulian, by the way, brought in "Golden Boy" four days under schedule—as if in answer to the criticism that arose on his overtime with another film he'd prefer to forget called "High, Wide and Handsome." The feat is the more remarkable when it is remembered that he had, in the title role, a boy of 21 who had never faced a camera for a real acting assignment before Mamoulian picked him for the part.

The director opines that young Bill Holden did a grand job and has a real future in films. Provided, I think he might have added but didn't, that Paramount does right by Bill on its share of his contract with Columbia. Offhand, I'd say the prospects were not too promising. Holden's first film for Paramount, from whose obscure stock ranks Mamoulian snatched him, will be "Golden Gloves," which looks like an obvious attempt to cash in quickly on his "Golden Boy" exploitation.

The boy has had, however, as Mamoulian did point out, a "break" to maintain Hollywood's fame as Cinderellaland for years to come.

* * *

"In the Caucasus," says Rouben, "where I come from, the babies are consistently brunets. The arrival of a blond baby in any home there is heralded and sung about, and the child is called a "golden baby," one destined for great things. Bill Holden, if he'd been born there instead of in O'Fallon, Ill., would have been a 'golden baby'."

ENOS, SPEAR ANNEX FOURTH STRAIGHT NEWS-JOURNAL TOURNEY DOUBLES CROWN

WHEN they talk about doubles combinations, Bob Spear and Bob Enos must be rated with the greatest duos ever assembled in Mansfield.

They again proved their superiority over the Mansfield field Sunday when they annexed their fourth straight News-Journal tournament doubles championship at the Woodlawn court.

The champion tandem did not have what could be called an easy time in disposing of the veteran Lowell Bourns and Waddy Slabaugh in the finals, but they had what was needed when the time came.

Spear and Enos outclassed their rivals in the first and last sets, but were harshly pushed in the middle sets. The scores were 6-1, 5-7, 9-7, 6-8, 6-3.

The Spear-Enos duo encountered little trouble to annex the first set. Bourns was the victim of a nasty spill in this set, but suffered only a minor bruise on the right knee.

Enos and Spear jumped into a 5 to 2 game lead in the second set, but Bourns and Slabaugh rallied and clinched the five next games to square the match.

The third and fourth sets were nip-and-tuck affairs, with the advantage shifting almost constantly.

In the fifth and deciding set, Enos and Spear jumped into a 5 to 2 lead and broke even in the final two games to win by a 6 to 3 margin.

One of the factors in the outcome of the matches was the superior volleying ability of the Enos-Spear duo, the teamwork of the two partners. Spear's overhand was another important item in the triumph.

A highlight of the losers' play was the murderous driving of Slabaugh from back court. Bourns volleyed well.

Statuettes emblematic of the city championship were presented to Enos and Spear after the match. Thornton Moore served as referee of the title match.

Finals in the women's singles and mixed doubles will be played some time this week, with the men's singles scheduled for the Woodlawn court next Sunday.

Men's singles quarter-finals scheduled today pit Slabaugh against Enos and Bob Keefe against Frank Gadfield. Both matches are scheduled at Woodlawn.

FIVE CHAMPS SLATED TO PLAY ON BILL ARRANGED FOR YARMAN BENEFIT.

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

A FIRST-CLASS athletic show involving five champions has been arranged for the "Darby" Yarman benefit scheduled at the Fairground next Sunday.

Softball games featuring a state and three district champons are billed as well as a baseball tussle.

The baseball game will send Dewey Durant's American Legion juniors, who represented this district in the state tournament, against the Yuncker Sports some 10 years ago.

Yarman was a member of the Yuncker club, one of the strongest semi-pro teams ever assembled in the city, and his place in the lineup Sunday will be taken by his son, Gene Yarman, who plays third base for Liberty park.

In the softball tilts, the DeLuxe Cabs meets the J. & H. club of Massillon and the Mansfield Merchants girls' team engages the state championship Youngstown aggregation.

The Cabs, runners-up in the Ohio elimination completed last night, and the Massillon club both won their respective district titles.

The Mansfield lassies are also champs of this district and meet the team Sunday which eliminated them in the state tournament in Elyria a week ago.

These games should give Mansfield one of it's greatest athletic shows of the year.

Bob Young, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the benefit, announced today that a record crowd is assured as the ticket sale has more than exceeded expectations.

The one and only Walter Hagen, after 25 years as one of golf's most commanding figures, bade farewell to serious tournament competition today. The pennant outlook of the Cincinnati Reds, who have given their supporters some anxious moments the last 10 days, took on a brighter hue today because:—

(2)—Ival Goodman has started to hit again.

(3)—Third Baseman Bill Werber is back in the lineup.

(4)—Second Baseman Lonnie Frey, out with an injured heel, is showing rapid improvement and may return any day.

Three Runs In First Beat Cabs In Ohio Finals

Braves Retain Chance to Win Playoff Berth

Stovermen Split Games With Oilers At Fairground; Play At Findlay Tonight, Home Tuesday

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

TWO defeats in three games over the week-end failed to destroy the Braves' chances for a place in the Shaughnessy playoff.

Although five games out of fourth place, Mansfield can make up the difference between now and Sept. 10 if it presents the type of ball down the home stretch that it offered at the Fairground last night.

Not much praise can be showered on the Braves for their Saturday night performance in Fremont and Sunday afternoon exhibition on the home grounds, but they did show some class in their nocturnal appearance on the Sabbath.

George Laurila was unable to hold a six-run advantage provided by his teammates in the first two innings in the Fremont game and the Braves were shellacked by a 12 to 6 count.

In the Sunday afternoon debacle, Dewey Stover and his tribal warriors were limited to four hits by Lefty Prussing, of Findlay, a youngster they walloped 14 to 5 a week ago, and they finished on the short end of a 7 to 3 count. A shutout would probably have resulted had Harry Siegbert not pounded the pellet over the right field wall in the ninth with two aboard.

Ontario Boy Stars.

A different story was fashioned by the Braves Sunday night. With Howard Patterson of nearby Ontario mixing up the pitches, the Braves whipped the Oilers, 8 to 2, Hank Edwards' circuit clout over the right field barrier in the seventh providing one of the highlights. It was his 16th of the season.

Aided by three double killings, Patterson turned out a neat performance in his professional debut. He gave the Oilers seven scattered hits, struck out three, walked the same number and produced a pair of infield hits.

A run-down between first and second enabled Findlay to tally its first run in the sixth. The other Findlay run was marked up in the ninth when two singles were put together.

Patterson was never in serious trouble at any other time as his teammates found the veteran Bill Kiger's offerings to their liking after the fourth.

The Braves performed like tame kittens in the Sunday afternoon tilt. Outside of the first inning when they got two men on the sacks with one gone, the home town boys failed to disturb Prussing until the ninth.

One of the Braves completely baffled by Prussing's wizardry was the hard-hitting Edwards, who combed his offerings for two home runs and a pair of doubles last week. Edwards failed to get a hit.

Nice relief pitching by Bill Cook enabled Fremont to take the measure of the Braves in Fremont Saturday. After Pine, the starting pitcher, had yielded six runs in the first two innings, Cook held the Braves runless the rest of the way.

The Braves held the advantage until the seventh when the Green Sox put three runs across the plate to take an 8 to 6 lead.

New Infielder Reports.

Jack Weiler, who arrived in the city Sunday morning from Logan, W. Va., where he has been holding down third, got into the lineup in both games Sunday and showed enough at shortstop to warrant his retention at the spot. He got a looping double to center in the second game for his only hit and was charged with one error.

The Braves are scheduled for a double-header at Findlay tonight, and return to the Fairground Tuesday night for a "Ladies' Night" game with Lima.

Mrs. C. C. Fish Wins Westbrook Title, Halts Mrs. Alan Tappan

MRS. C. C. FISH of Shelby today is the owner of the trophy symbolic of the women's championship of the Westbrook Country club. The Shelby club wielder annexed the title by defeating Mrs. Alan Tappan, 4 and 3, in the finals yesterday.

While the women were battling it out for the title, two Mansfield amateur stars were waging a thrilling duel in a semi-final setto in the championship flight of the Westbrook tournament.

That match found Bob Moorhead, the defending champion, breaking out with a trio of birdies on the final nine to topple Bill Black, jr., 3 and 2. Moorhead, who gained the decision with birdies on No. 14, 15 and 16, after Black had evened the contest on the 13th hole, smacked out a 38-34—72. Black carded a 37-36—73.

Ed Eisele edged Howard Sotzen, one up on the 19th hole to capture the other semi-final affair. Eisele and Moorhead tangle for the crown Labor day over a 36-hole route.

In the second flight semi-finals, Jim Hoffman won over Bob Stevens, default, and Milo Heiber beat Dr. Art Sprecker, 2 and 1. Third flight results: J. C. Gorman topped L. L. Lamoreux, 4 and 3, and E. K. Bacon tripped Joe Johnston, 4 and 3, and in the fourth flight, Hal Kroeger eliminated E. W. Olson and J. L. Connors defeated Martin Brunner.

* * *

The fight for championship honors in the Possum Run club tournament was a step nearer completion today as four top-notch shotmakers cross clubs in semi-final settos this week.

Still in the thick of the battle is Pete Linster, defending titlist. Challenging a bid for his second straight crown are Joe Mayer, George Hanawalt and Vin Malaska. Mayer tackles Hanawalt and Malaska tackles Linster.

In quarter-final melees, Mayer outstroked Al Kushin, 2 and 1. Hanawalt outlasted Pete Zeides, 2 and 1; Linster disposed of Rollie Rachel, 3 and 2, and Malaska defeated Joe Kasper, 3 and 2.

Pacing the field for low medal honors was Linster with a three-under-par 69. Mayer had a 71, Hanawalt and Rollie Rachel 72's.

In quarter-final matches in the second flight, "Pop" Davis beat Maurice Byrnes, 3 and 2; B. McCullough bested Fay Shrome, 3 and 2; Frank Vild toppled Don Doty, 2 and 1, and M. Spurgeon defeated A. Mollenkamp, 6 and 5.

Third flight: D. Ford won over Jake Mayer, default; H. Ackley topped C. Biddle, 2 and 1; H. Straub outmastered Harry Frick, 3 and 2, and R. Treisch defeated I. Dillon, 3 and 2.

In the women's tournament in first flight matches, Harriett Roth won over R. Strome, 3 and 2, and Pattie Oberlander defeated Audrey Long, 5 and 4. Second flight results: Luella Brandt stopped Mrs. I. Dillon, 3 and 2, and Mrs. R. Beal, bye.

* * *

Tony Schadek, the defending champion, is another spectator today as the Coolridge Country club tournament moved into the quarter-final round. Schadek was upset by John Scodova, 4 and 2, last week. The erstwhile title holder ran into trouble on his first nine to lose the match.

Others advancing to the quarter-finals are Steve Stirtzinger, who beat Mike Mahalic, 8 and 6, Pete Zimmerman, who won over Roy Racheel, 3 and 2, and Gene Zediker, who topped Nick Loris, one up on the 19th hole.

* * *

Red Keck tripped John Fisch, 6 and 5. Clare Bell won over Fred Schwaner, 4 and 2, Carl Rancinger defeated Tony Linster, 3 and 2, and Phil Premy beat Jake Kutschall, 3 and 2, in second flight matches.

Third flight results: Joe Sferro outmatched Jim Leiterm, 6 and 5, Phil Schwaner outlasted Joe Zimmerman, 4 and 2. Joe Rancinger beat Frank Jerger, one up, and Vert Hunter won over Fred Huntsman, 9 and 7.

In the fourth flight: Joe Weidle won over Ned Brooks, default; J. J. Anderson, bye, J. R. Anderson beat F. W. Patterson, 4 and 2.

Ferd Schwaner set a new course record Sunday at Coolridge for the season by blasting out a 31-34-65. His card was three under par. The 65 mark ties the Coolridge 18-hole record.

Feller Hurls 19th Victory

Yields Only 4 Hits as Tribe Takes Two Games.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians, in fighting mood, today boasted a winning streak of seven straight games after defeating the Boston Red Sox twice yesterday 1 to 0, and 5 to 3.

Bob Feller hurled a four-hit masterpiece for his 19th victory of the season as he blanked the Sox in the opener. He fanned six batters to bring his season's strikeout total to 192.

Willis Hudlin scored his seventh win of the campaign in the nightcap, aided by home runs by Ray Mack and Hal Trosky. Trosky's round-tripper came in the eighth inning with two mates on base, and decided the ball game.

The first game was enlivened by a fight in the Indians' dugout between Outfielder Jeff Heath and Pitcher Johnny Broaca. Heath, after striking out in the third inning, tossed his bat high in the air. It struck the dugout roof, and landed in a front row box hitting a spectator.

He was ordered from the game by Umpire Bill McGowan, and as Heath entered the dugout Broaca remonstrated with him for his action. Words led to blows, but the two were quickly separated by Manager Oscar Vitt and Coach Oscar Melillo. Vitt sent both to the clubhouse.

Mansfield Team Plays Spectacular Ball Before Bowing in Last Game in Red Bird Stadium.

By CHARLES MARTIN

FOR several years a hard-hitting gang of Mansfield softball players have been trying to win themselves a state amateur championship.

That group has played under several sponsors, but until last night had never advanced further than the second round.

Playing as the DeLuxe Cabs, the aggregation had their best opportunity to accomplish the feat at Red Bird stadium in Columbus last night but it wasn't in the books for the club to turn the trick.

The Cabbies, with Jimmy Fullager on the mound, tackled the touted Ferguson's State Auditors in the championship finals, and when the heat of the battle cooled off, they had suffered a heart-breaking 3 to 2 defeat.

Take Over Lead.

Things looked rather bright for the Mansfield team when it punched over two markers in the opening frame. Fullager, however, got into trouble in the last half of the stanza and the new champions tallied three times to take the lead.

Fullager

That one-run advantage was plenty as Solt, Ferguson's great moundsman, shut out the Mansfielders the rest of the way. He struck out nine, and walked one as he limited the Cabbies to four hits.

One of Mansfield's bad breaks came in the sixth with two men away. Frank Balbaugh was on first and Aston hit a double through the rover's legs.

Balbaugh scored standing up, and as he walked towards the dugout, Umpire Harold M. Gankle, called him out. An argument lasted 15 minutes. The run would have tied the score.

The four umpires had a police escort when they left the field.

Mansfield scored in the first on a pair of singles and a walk. Hummel and Balbaugh crossing the plate.

Fergusons tallied their marks when Hayes opened the inning with a single, Grogan doubled, and Hiekle and W. Phillips collected successive bingles.

Mansfield, which chalked up the highest scoring figure of the tournament in beating the Cambridge WPA club, 12 to 1, in a semi-final setto Sunday afternoon, threatened a couple times after that but couldn't do anything with Solt's baffling delivery with runners on the paths.

The Cabs' two runs in the first chapter marked the first time the Auditor's home plate had been dented in 26 innings in previous tournament contests.

Mansfield, in advancing to the finals, disposed of the defending championship Toledo Page Dairy, Dayton Sucher Packing and Cambridge. The Cabbies victory over the Dayton club was a thriller.

Going into an extra inning with the score deadlocked at 2-all, Gerald Schaffer saved the day by clouting out a home run with Ray Hunt on base to give the Cabs a 4 to 2 decision.

The Ferguson club, which will invade Chicago for competition in the national championships, won its way into the title contest by eliminating Elyria Bittner Funeral Home, Niles Republic Steel and Toledo Tribly Sportsmen.

Frank Balbaugh, the Cabbies' rover, who played a great defensive game throughout the tourney, came through with two spectacular catches in the semi-final tussle that brought cheers from the fans. Harry Ross, third sacker, had a busy day afield in the Dayton game by handling 10 chances without a bobble.

Win Semi-Finals.

It was the second appearance in the tourney for Fullager, who hurled the Cabs to their first win Friday. Freddie Carver beat the Dayton club and Wade Cornelius handcuffed the Cambridge team in the semi-finals.

Fullager pitched great ball after the first frame and it was the second time he refused to issue a base on balls. He fanned three and allowed seven hits.

Ferguson committed three errors and the Cabs one. George Hummel and Harold Aston led the Mansfielders at the plate with a double apiece.

Bumper Crop of Pitchers Winning 20 Games Looms

Ruffing Reaches Goal, Feller Only One Short; Curt Davis Also Threatens Mark.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer

BEFORE the finish this baseball season may be notable for many things—including Joe Di Maggio, first .400 hitter in nine years—but it seems certain to have a bumper crop of pitchers winning 20 or more games.

In the first flush of mid-season enthusiasm over achievements by Bucky Walters, Bob Feller, Red Ruffing and their fellow tradesmen, some fans even thought a 30-game winner might pop up.

This prospect faded when Walters was stalled two weeks trying to win his 21st game for the Cincinnati Reds. However, he's going to have plenty of company in the 20-class, which last year numbered only Ruffing, Bill Lee, Buck Newsom and Paul Derringer.

Fourth Time For Reds.

Ruffing reached the goal for the fourth consecutive year yesterday as the New York Yankees tamed the Detroit Tigers, 13-3, for their ninth straight victory, extending their American League lead to 13 full games.

Feller pitched Cleveland a four-hit, 1-0 shutout in the first game of a doubleheader against the Boston Red Sox for his 19th triumph. The Tribe also bumped Boston in the second game, 5-3, for the Sox' fifth consecutive loss.

Derringer hurled the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-2 decision over the New York Giants on six hits, bringing his total of games won to 17.

Among other pitchers aiming at the mark are Curt Davis of the St. Louis Cardinals, with 18 won; Tommy Bridges of the Tigers and Bill Lee of the Chicago Cubs, each with 16, and Buck Newsom of Detroit, Luke Hamlin of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Dutch Leonard of the Washington Senators, with 15 apiece.

Leonard got his 15th yesterday as the Senators performed an about-face against the St. Louis Browns. He had to have help in the ninth, but got credit for the 8-7 victory in the first game. Ken Chase went the route in the 11-inning nightcap to win 4-3.

Bill Lee, on the other hand, failed to increase his total as the Phillies nudged out the Cubs, 4-3 and 3-2. He gave only six hits in losing the first game.

Cardinals Split.

The Boston Bees and Cardinals split with Bill Posedel winning the first game, 10-4, for Boston. The Cards came from behind to take the second, 6-5, in eight innings.

Cy Blanton stopped the Dodgers, 9-5, in his first start since April 23 after they had beaten the Pirates, 3-2, in the opener.

Bill Beckman shut out the Chicago White Sox for the Philadelphia Athletics, 2-0.

Permit Four Hits as Lucas Trims Parkmen, 8-4.

Lefty Diehl and Jack Oswalt shared the pitching duties for Lucas against Liberty park on the Mansfield diamond Sunday, and the Park athletes found the pair tough twirlers to solve.

Liberty Park was unable to obtain no more than four hits off their deliveries, and, consequently, fell before Lucas by an 8 to 4 score. Meanwhile, Lucas jumped on a pair of park slingers for 13 bingles, with Geherisch setting the pace with three blows.

Reese Opticals Square Title Series With Musille Cigars

ONE more game must be played to decide the championship of the Y. M. C. A. Commercial softball league.

In the first game of the playoff to determine the title, the Musille Cigars edged the Reese Opticals, 5 to 4. The Opticals turned right around and evened the series Sunday at Prospect park by whipping the Cigars, 2 to 1, in what was an interesting ball game.

McKinley of the Cigars and Shaffer of the Opticals both yielded six hits, but the Reese club made better use of its blows. The Reesemen tallied their two runs in the sixth to take the decision.

The only player to obtain more than one hit was Clemens, Reese's second baseman, who pounded out a pair of singles.

Hi-Speeds Bow In 9th Inning

Lose to Loudonville Indians in Thrilling Tilt.

LOUDONVILLE — Rallying in the ninth inning to score the winning run, the Loudon Indians scored a thrilling victory over the Mansfield Hi-Speeds, 8 to 7, here yesterday afternoon.

The Hi-Speeds, bunching most of their hits in the ninth inning, tied up the game at seven-all. They had scored previously in the fifth, sixth, and seventh innings, to keep within distance of the winners, but when Red Augberger of the winners led off in the last of the ninth with a triple, the outcome of the game was pretty certain.

Augberger, sparkling shortstop addition to the local team, was the hitting hero of the day. Besides the ninth-inning triple, he had previously slugged out a home run to deep center field in the seventh inning.

"Dizzy" Murphy, strikeout act, added seven Mansfielders to his list of victims and run his total for the season to 146.

These payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2% monthly on balances up to $300 and 6% yearly on balances over $300 to $500. These rates are less than legal maximum, and are the same to everyone—one price to all. Only borrowers sign—no endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.

LIST ATTEMPTS TO RALLY AFTER LOWER OPENING

Regains Part of Ground Lost on Revival of European War Fears.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A slow rally got under way in the stock market today after leaders had tumbled 1 to 4 points on a revival of European war fears.

Improvement started near midday, and with volume relatively small, extreme losses were reduced in many instances.

Bonds inclined to give ground with several U. S. government and foreign issues weak. Wheat pushed up, but eventually lost part of its gains. Cotton dropped.

Sterling at London dived to a new low for the past six years and bar gold at that center was lifted to a new record peak in terms of the pound.

There were virtually no transactions in American securities on the London exchange as the British government instituted close restrictions on the sale by nationals of foreign securities. Markets at Paris and Amsterdam were erratic.

In the matter of metals, it was noted the magazine "Steel" maintained its fairly cheerful view.

With automobile output turning the corner, the stablizing effect on steel shipments was stressed. It was believed orders from the motor field would continue to expand through the fall. In addition, some railway buying was reported, along with a modest demand from farm equipment builders and building construction operators.

Mystery Signals Germany's Orders To Ships at Sea?

NEW YORK—(INS)—An ominously worded radio message in code which crackled incessantly through the air last night was believed today to have been an urgent warning to all German shipping at sea to speed immediately to home ports or neutral havens.

The mysteriously worded message began "Weifergabenachricht, (instructions to all concerned), then continued with 30 five-letter code words and concluded "Nach Sonderanweisung Handeln."

This was translated as "comply with your special secret orders at once." The radio message which was repeated many times and intercepted by several New York short wave stations was addressed to about 36 German ships now at sea.

Germany Hands Out 'Food Cards', Limits Wardrobes

MEN ALLOWED ONE SUIT AND THREE SHIRTS

Women Permitted 2 Dresses, 1 Coat, 2 Pairs of Shoes Under Decrees.

(By United Press)

BERLIN — Adolf Hitler today completed German military preparations for any emergency.

All regular miliary units called up — reportedly totalling around 2,500,000 men—now have reached war stations, the last arriving late this morning.

All preparations such as distribution of gasoline supplies have now been completed, it was understood.

The Nazi government has issued food and other ration cards, decreed a limited wardrobe for Germans and kept at a high pitch the press campaign of abuse and charges of frontier violations against Poland.

French Anger Hitler.

Hitler, angered by French declarations that he rejected proposals for conciliation with Poland, accused French Premier Edouard Daladier of attempting to blame him for the danger of war and publicly demanded the return of Danzig and the Polish corridor to Germany.

Meanwhile, the public sought to make the most of the limitation of food supplies and read in the official gazette that the normal clothing supply for Germans from now on included:

One coat, two suits, three shirts and two pair of shoes for men.

Two dresses, one coat, two petticoats and two pair of shoes for women.

According to new decrees supplementing the food and other material rationing, articles of clothing may be bought with a special permit only when the number of articles in the owner's possession can be proved to be below this maximum.

To conserve soap, it was decreed that men must obtain special permission to buy one tube of shaving cream every five months. Persons sending clothes to the laundry must provide the laundry with soap from their own ration which is a quarter of a pound of washing soap until Sept. 25.

Men and women will be permitted two sets of working clothes. Children above three will be allowed the same wardrobe as adults, without workclothes.

The household dry goods will be similarly limited. Two bed sheets, three bath towels, three dishtowels, one pillow case, two bed covers will be permitted per person. Two dust rags and two dish rags per person also will be allowed.

As these regulations were published, a crowd of several hundred persons continued a vigil outside the reichschancellery awaiting a decision in connection with Hitler's diplomatic exchanges with Britain.

There was a crowd in the chancellery corridors. Many of Hitler's close associates already had doffed their gaudy uniforms and put on the army's field grey uniform.

As the hours rolled by, the tension among crowds in the street mounted steadily. Several women in the crowd by the chancellery fainted but when revived they went back to their places.

BALLOON BARRAGE UP

LONDON — (INS) — The balloon barrage designed to protect London from air raids was sent aloft tonight as a rehearsal and preparation for hostilities.

Digging of trenches and erection of sandbag barricades continued, the government supplied 200,000,000 sandbags throughout the city, 50,000 of which were placed around Westminster hospital to the heighth of the second story.

Papers were removed from the law courts. Westminster cathedral was ordered to remain open nightlong to enable prayers to be said for peace.

Baggage jammed the railway stations as government control of shipping brought the freight market to a standstill.

National debt commissioners announced arrangements to regulate bank withdrawals. Beginning with evacuation, citizens will be permitted to withdraw only 3 pounds sterling ($15.00) at a time up to a total of 12 pounds ($60) during the first month.

ADMITS CHARGE

Father Pleads Guilty to Contempt of Court, Sentence Delayed.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston deferred sentence today in the case of William Hyman, 31, of 51 Home avenue who pleaded guilty to a charge of contempt of court resulting from his failure to pay $5 a week for the support of a minor child.

Hyman was released from the county jail and Judge Huston continued the case to permit further investigation. Hyman allegedly was several weeks in arrears in his payments, which had been ordered by Judge Hutson following the granting of a divorce to Hyman's wife.

LETS CONTRACT FOR PAVING JOB

City Awards Woodward Avenue Project to Asphalt Firm on Low Bid of $8,836.

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced today that the contract for the paving of Woodward avenue had been awarded to the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company on the firm's low bid of $8,836.65.

The proposal submitted by the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company was $609.50 lower than the bid of $9,446.15 entered by George B Herring, only other bidder for the project. Both bids were below the city engineer's estimates.

Specifications call for the construction of a 30-foot asphalt roadway and combination curbs and gutters on the street between Marion and Bartley avenues.

City council at its Aug. 1 meeting authorized the construction work and earmarked $2,450 in gasoline tax funds to provide for the city's share of the costs.

Youngsters Take to Gardening Seriously--Winners Announced

When the late Gen. Roeliff Brinkerhoff left a trust fund of $1,000 to promote interest in flower gardens among Mansfield school children, he probably had no idea that the project would be taken so seriously by the youngsters that an entire garden, in full bloom, would be transplanted from one end of town to the other in the middle of the summer; nor that a dog house would be "landscaped" in an effort to win an award.

The annual cash awards and certificate winners, selected by a school garden committee made up of chairmen from each of the city's six garden clubs, were announced today by the board of education.

Gen. Brinkerhoff's bequest provided that the money should promote interest among school children in beautifying their homes and yards, and each year finds more children competing for prizes. The Brinkerhoff fund provides $60 annually and the Garden clubs give an additional $10.

The city is divided into six districts which take in all of the grade schools, and awards are made by points which take in consideration the pupil, his interest in the project, design of the garden, color scheme, cultivation, health of plants and unusual plants.

An unusual amount of interest was shown by the children this year, two of them, Marilyn and Roland Given, moving their garden bodily when their parents moved from West Fifth street to Davis road. Zinnias and marigolds in full bloom were carefully taken up, one at a time, and replanted in the same design at the children's new home, and in spite of the heat the little garden is flourishing and won a certificate of merit for the two gardeners.

Jackie Dearman, 9, 169 Chilton avenue, decided to beautify his doghouse with his project, even though the dog is pretty short on "blue blood." After building a white doghouse with green shingle roof, he planted morning glories around it and at the side front planted a garden of late summer annuals which is now in full bloom.

Two of the most attractive gardens are those of Hazel Donaldson, 9, Garfield place, who planted an "alphabet garden," and Donald Leedy, South Diamond street, who enclosed his garden with a hand-made picket fence. The alphabet garden has a flower to represent every letter except "Q," from ageratum and Browalia on through to yarrow and zinias. Young Leedy made his foot-high pickets out of cheese boxes and painted them white. He also made a bird bath to ornament the garden.

Dick Burton, 11, of 184 Sycamore street, laid out a perfect five-point star and planted different flowers on each point and in the center. Richard Cates, 11, of 355 North Townview, built his own fish pool for his garden and lost most of the skin off his hands by mixing the cement by hand.

Winners this year were selected by Mrs. A. M. Colby, the city wide chairman, and her committee of garden club chairmen: Mrs. Paul McConnell, Astowela club; Mrs. J. H. Petree, Cottage club; Mrs. Harold Bruce, Johnny Appleseed club; Mrs. H. M. Armstrong, Linneas club, and Mrs. H. L. Longsdorf, Town and Country. Mrs. Colby represented the Mansfield Garden club.

First prize winners in the contests this year, who received $4 each, were: Rea Ohl, Prospect school; Hazel Donaldson, Western avenue school; Donald Leedy, Hedges school; Elsie Strolein, Newman school; Dick Burton, West Fifth street school, and Juanette Jarman, Bowman school.

Second prize winners ($3 in cash) were: Neil Miller, Carpenter; Eileen Mellick, Newman; Herbert Henry Davis, Hedges; Mary Roadpouch, Bowman; Richard Cates, Woodland; and Jackie Dearman, Prospect.

Third prize winners ($2 in cash) were Richard Orr, Woodland; Martha Kinley, Brinkerhoff; Louise Black, Carpenter; Donald Rettig, Newman; Mary Frances Betz, Prospect.

The following were given honorable mention and 50 cents each: Lawrence Harper, Marilyn Teeter, Mary Caton, Jo Anne Appleman, Jimmie Umbarger, June Zaebst, Margaret Burger, Susan Bell Biddle, Marion Gilbert, Jean Connor, Frances McCarrick, Billy Fassos, Dean Pittenger, Nancy Osbun, Joanne Armstrong, Nancy Galbraith, Norma Jean Young, Barbara Bauer, Doris May Goff, Arthella Slorp, Earl Bridges, Betty Jane Wade and Alice Karsmizki.

An additional list of 65 received certificates of merit.

A LUCKY DOG

The 51 year old woman established a $1,500 dog fund and left the rest of her money to relatives.

ASHLAND—A week in the county jail was the penalty for Albert Esterline of Ashland, who was found guilty of contempt of court before Judge H. E. Culbertson here.

ROOSEVELT PREPARED TO CALL CONGRESS, INVOKE NEUTRALITY

WASHINGTON— If a European war breaks out, a government official said today, President Roosevelt will invoke the neutrality law at the same time that he calls congress to consider its revision.

The law places an embargo on all shipments of arms and ammunition to belligerents. The administration wants to repeal this provision and permit sales on a sort of "cash and carry" basis.

The president is directed to invoke the neutrality act whenever he finds that a "state of war" exists. It has not been applied to the Sino-Japanese conflict, where no declaration of war ever has been forthcoming.

Authoritative sources said the law might not be called into operation if there was only a "lightning" war between Germany and Poland, but they expressed certainty that it would be invoked if the conflict spread throughout the continent.

Mr. Roosevelt and state department officials have been drawing up the proclamations by which the act would be put into effect, and have supervised a long series of preparations designed to ease the shock of a European war on American economic conditions.

The president remained in the white house during the week-end, talking with Secretary Hull by telephone and studying dispatches to the state department. He held in abeyance plans for a trip tonight to his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., but the impression prevailed that he would not leave the capital.

JUDGING STARTS AT FAIR; 58,000 ATTEND SUNDAY

Attendance Shatters Records, as Farm Show Resumes With Admission Hiked.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio's 89th annual State fair swung into the business of judging today while its officers grinned happily over a record-shattering Sunday paid attendance.

Fair Manager Win H. Kinnan said a total of 57,883 persons bought 25-cent tickets and jammed their way into the grounds for Sunday's "old fashioned family day." A year ago 42,806 were on hand.

Tickets 50 Cents Now.

Officials said the fact that the 25-cent price ended with yesterday's show—tickets went to 50 cents today—was partly responsible for the turnout. Everyone seeing the fair this year must pay; Kinnan has issued a "no-passes" order.

Saturday's paid attendance was 21,640, compared with 21,500 a year ago.

Judging in all livestock exhibit barns and the horticulture building started today — exhibitors' day—as did the regular afternoon harness races.

A "million dollar parade" or livestock will precede tonight's horse show in the coliseum, and later farm girls will engage in a milking contest.

Today's judging was confined to Belgian horses and Ayrshire and Shorthorn cattle in the coliseum and all kinds of junior fair competition in the new livestock arena.

With an estimated 1,500 spectators looking on, the horse show was launched last night with entries by Virginia Penfield of Columbus scoring a one-two victory in the featured class.

Her Star Flower, a six-year-old brown, took first in the Ohio-owned five-gaited mares event, while My Star Is Born was judged second.

The night's other major class, for Ohio-owned three-gaited mares and geldings, was won by White Sails, a gelding, owned by Jack McCombe's Log Cabin farms at Ravenna.

Winner at the start of judging included: Farm Shop exhibits—(Wheelbarrow) 1st, Clifton Henson, Leesburg; (Singletree) 1st, Virgil Zimmerman, Ashland; 2nd, Robert Zimmerman, Ashland; 3rd, Donius Huff, Trinway. (Doubletree 1st, Virgil Zimmerman, Ashland; 2nd, Robert Zimmerman, Ashland. (Neckyoke) 1st, Blaine Woodyard, Chesterhill; 2nd, Robert Zimmerman, Ashland; 3rd, Virgil Zimmerman, Ashland.

MANSFIELD VETS WILL BID FOR 1940 REUNION OF 37TH DIVISION

When the annual reunion of the World war veterans of the 37th division is held in Dayton next week-end, a Mansfield delegation will go armed with an invitation to hold the 1940 reunion here.

A committee of Mansfield veterans is working this week to raise $300 which is required before the invitation can be extended, they said. C. O. Lister, a member of the committee, said they hoped to raise it among restaurants and hotels.

Heading the Mansfield delegation will be A. L. Allen, president of the Mansfield unit. Among the others who will attend the reunion will be Glenn Bierly, J. Earl Ports, C. E. Sanderson, Floyd Buzzard, H. C. Hoffman, Judge C. H. Huston, Harry Crouse, Harry Uplinger, Ben Emmer, Marion DeHart, Ralph Schad, and Lister. A number of the men will be accompanied by their wives.

A "dugout" will be established at the Biltmore hotel. Saturday night there will be a military ball and floor show and on Sunday there will be a memorial service, both at the Biltmore and at the Dayton National Military Home cemetery, a visit to disabled veterans at the hospital, and in the evening the divisional banquet at the hotel.

Business sessions of the veterans and the women's organization will be held on Monday.

HERE'S A PEN PICTURE OF A NEWSROOM AS WAR THREATENS

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—How American newspaper correspondents in London are preparing for the worst was graphically described today in an air-mail letter received from Charles A. Smith, acting manager of the International News Service bureau in the British capital.

Written only a few days ago, the letter said in part:

"I'm bating out a few lines in order to give you some sort of a pen picture of the office and local situation after a week of crisis, with a capital 'C.'

"It's like writing my last will and testament, but put that comment down to an attack of morbidness probably caused by lack of sleep, a surfeit of bad Fleet street sandwiches and coffee, and considerable mental worry trying to get my family fixed up someplace where the bombs may not be dropping.

"The office looks like a funeral parlor. All the windows have been painted over with black distemper, the lights are shrouded in black paint and we have stacks of black and brown paper ready to paste over all glass to prevent flying splinters.

"Add to this the fact there are various notices stuck around warning the staff to keep their gas masks handy, instructing them how to do this and that in an air raid, and you will realize this isn't quite the bright and happy place you quit last wintter. . . .

"Communications are bloody awful. Taken an hour to contact a place even 25 miles outside London, while the continent is steadily becoming impossible. Berlin for two days has not been able to reach us by phone and we have had to put in all the calls through here, keeping a call in almost continuously in the hope it will mature at a convenient time.

"Maybe we are to be bombed, maybe not. Anyway, we are having a great time on the greatest story for 25 years. You can bet I'm determined to stick it out until we are driven out."

Receipts $200,000 Short of Charge for Second Half.

Nearly $200,000 short of the last half charge and with only four more days to go, county real estate tax collections continued to lag today.

Receipts totaled $376,992 while the tax bill for the final half of the year is approximately $575,000. During the past week $73,592 was collected for an average of about $10,500 a day.

For a 100 per cent collection, receipts must average more than $40,000 a day for the remaining days of the collection period which ends Friday. After the deadline, unpaid taxes will be declared delinquent and a 10 per cent penalty will be added to payments.

HENDERSON ON WAY TO BERLIN WITH 'NO' REPLY

Britain Completes Draft of Answer to Hitler; Leaves Way to Peace Open.

tain will be at her side immediately.

An emergency meeting of parliament was called for 2:45 p. m. (8:45 a. m. EST) tomorrow to hear a speech on the European situation from Prime Minister Chamberlain, and brief speeches by leaders of the opposition parties.

It was understood the government took the position a just settlement of European problems could be reached only by removal of the threat of force.

Furthermore, it was said, a "clearer atmosphere" might open the way for a full discussion of international relations.

No Affect On Crisis.

A source close to the government indicated Britain did not regard Hitler's publication of his letter to Premier Daladier of France, embodying a flat demand for Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish corridor), either as heightening or lessening the present crisis.

In general, it was understood, the Hitler message to Britain covered, besides the immediate question of Poland, the broader issue of future German-British relations. It was said to be somewhat more inclusive than the Fuehrer's letter to Daladier.

Britain's position, the authoritative London Times said editorially today, "could hardly be better stated" than in the week-end "message to the German people" issued by the British national council of labor.

This message said, "there need be no war, if the threat of force is renounced. But if Poland is attacked, Germany will be at war not with Poland only, but from the first day, with Great Britain and France, who both stand firmly by their pledges."

The government's decision to make public Hitler's message and its reply apparently without allowing time for a German response, couple with additional preparedness steps, indicated to informed observers no concessions would be offered Germany.

There was considerable speculation about the identity of a passenger who arrived in a German plane yesterday and remained three hours at the German embassy. Some saw in this possibility that Germany and Britain were exchanging secret communications preliminary to the formal reply to Hitler.

(By United Press)

AROUSE NAZI ANGER

As Nazis in Berlin impatiently awaited Britain's note, they bitterly accused France of attempting to discredit Adolf Hitler.

Hitler was reported thoroughly angry at a French government communique which, as Nazis held, accused him of rejecting peace suggestions, and caused him after a midnight conference with the highest leaders in the Nazi hierarchy to publish the text of letters he had exchanged with Premier Edouard Daladier.

The effect of these letters was that Hitler and Daladier exchanged expressions of a will to peace and friendship but that Daladier reaffirmed France's pledge to aid Poland against attack and Hitler said that he must have Danzig and the Polish corridor.

Hitler said that he saw no possibility of influencing Poland to correct, in a sensible way, a situation which is insupportable to the German people and the German reich.

Hitler had been busy at his chancellery when news came of the French communique.

Gives Secret Address.

He had summoned available members of his Nazi reichstag to the new chancellery and addressed them secretly concerning, it was disclosed officially, of the "gravity of the hour."

Then came news of the communique. Hitler went into conference with his close advisers including Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Nazi No. 2 and decided to publish the full text of a letter Daladier had sent him, in reply to suggestions he had sent Daladier through the French ambassador to Berlin, and the reply he sent to Daladier.

The propaganda ministry, evident on urgent orders, not only issued the usual summonses to foreign correspondents but telephoned cafes at which correspondents gather, to go at once to a press conference.

There the Daladier-Hitler exchange was handed out.

That relations with France had been affected by the incident there was no doubt. Hitler was said in the most reliable quarters to feel himself a victim of a French attempt to put on him the onus for success of negotiations.

Nazis angrily asserted that Daladier's statement accused Hitler of flatly refusing to help in efforts to conciliate and that his statement did not represent the facts. They said that Daladier's real purpose was to bring about direct German negotiations with Poland.

Daladier in his letter said at the outset:

"I owe it to our two great peoples to say that the fate of peace still lies in your hands."

He said that the French people, and he himself, wanted only to be friends with Germany and that he had done all he could to preserve peace and issue sincere co-operation.

"Unless you concede the French people a less high conception of honor than I am conceding the German people you can not doubt that France will loyally fulfill her obligations to other powers," he continued. He specifically mentioned Poland and said he was convinced Poland wanted peace.

Hitler in reply said that he had tried to banish all causes of conflict with France. The pouring of "billions" of marks into German fortifications on the French frontier was an affirmation of Germany's concession of the present border, he said.

He went on to say that he had sought to remove the "intolerable" provisions of the Versailles treaty and he suggested that Daladier in his place would have done likewise.

Hits 'Press Campaign.'

He said that Poland had rejected German demands and that Britain had let loose a "wild press campaign." He said that Poland encouraged at hope of British and French support had made demands "which would be branded as ridiculous madness were they not so very dangerous."

"I therefore made clear my demand that Danzig and the corridor must return to Germany.

"The Macedonian condition on our eastern frontier must be eliminated. I see no means to move Poland, who feels herself unassailable under the protection of her guarantors, to a peaceful solution. I would, however, doubt the honorable future of my people if under such conditions we were not determined to solve the question one way or another."

If war should come, he said, Germany would be fighting to remove an injustice; others to maintain that injustice.

Crowd In London Panic-Stricken By Toy Ball 'Bombing'

LONDON — (INS) — Hundreds gathered outside No. 10 Downing street today as the cabinet met were stampeded when a man "bombed" the ministers with rubber balls.

As the last cabinet minister entered the chancellery, the man hurled a small suitcase over the heads of the throng, and a number of black objects fell out.

Many women were knocked down in the near-panic as children screamed. Police had to protect the man from the crowd.

The man, shouting "I. R. A." as he threw the suitcase, was badly mauled before police rescued him.

Authorities said later they were satisfied that he was just a crank.

INMATE BLAMED

Youth Serving Term in O. S. R. Involved in Traffic Death.

An inmate of the Ohio State reformatory serving a sentence for automobile theft was blamed today by a Columbus detective for the death of a Pickaway county man last December following an automobile wreck.

Associated Press dispatches from Columbus said City Detective Oscar Loos reported that the arrest of two 18-year-old youths had cleared up details surrounding the death of Stanford Burris, 33, of near Lockborne, as the result of a Dec. 3 auto wreck near Circleville.

The dispatches said Loos reported he had evidence that the pair and the youth held in the reformatory were involved in the fatal accident.

Returning to Columbus from Circleville in a stolen machine, the youth now in the reformatory, Loos said, knocked Burris' car into a ditch. When the Columbus boys in a second stolen car saw the accident, they abandoned the machine they were driving and with their companion returned to Columbus on foot, the detective said.

FIGHTS MALADY

Ohio Town Mystified By Deaths of Four Children.

BELLAIRE —(AP)— An undiagnosed malady which already has taken the lives of four children in nearby Powhatan threatened another today.

Earlier this month, three children in one family, Elsie Lee Stumpp, 3, Betty Lou, five month, and Loan, 2, died with a ten-day period.

the proposals. Polish public opinion, convinced that England and France would now fight for Poland, began to make demands which one might possibly stigmatize as laughable insanity were they not so tremendously dangerous.

"I see no way of persuading Poland, which feels herself as unassailable now that she enjoys the protection of her guarantees, to accept a peaceful solution. I should, however, despair of an honorable future for my people, if it were not determined under such circumstances to solve the problem in one way or another."

Rome Claims Duce Ready to Take Hand

ROME—(AP)—Fascists said today Premier Mussolini was ready to lend his good offices to a settlement of European problems, but indicated that Great Britain and France would have to satisfy both Germany and Italy of their goodwill.

Virginio Gayda, often the unofficial spokesman of the government, said Mussolini alone could not "accomplish the miracle expected of him."

"He has need," Gayda wrote in the Giornale D'Italia, "of responsible men of goodwill who listen to his words and understand with honesty the spirit in which he speaks them."

Gayda, like other Italian commentators, remained pessimistic as to the outcome of the exchange of notes between London and Berlin.

The margin of time in which to avert war, he said, was lessening, adding, "no bright hopes should be drawn" from the current "waiting phase."

Mussolini was in contact with both Adolf Hitler and the British government.

It also became known today Pope Pius XII received Francis Osborne, British envoy to the holy see, at Castel Gandolfo yesterday.

A Vatican source also said a high papal official met Casimer Papee, Polish ambassador to the holy see, yesterday, and that radio message was dispatched to Monsignor Filippo Cortesi, papal nuncio at Warsaw, instructing him to get in touch with the Polish government at once.

Those acquainted with Mussolini's viewpoint thought it was likely he was insisting on the recognition of Italian claims on France in any general settlement, while at the same time using his efforts to end the crisis.

visions totalling 375,000 men in a minimum of from three to a maximum of five days.

The large majority of Europe is now inclined to believe that Hitler could not avoid war if he wanted, because he has gone too far to retreat. But a minority of skeptics observe that he is obviously impressed with failure of his anticipation that the allies would collapse and surrender Poland to him after signing of the Russo-German pact.

It was this failure which induced him to ask British Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson to carry his so-called new proposals to England.

But the allies did not merely fail to collapse. Over the week-end every vestige of appeasement and every suggestion of "another Munich" disappeared.

The allies are showing such a fighting spirit as would never have been believed possible a year ago when Hitler seemingly crushed them.

Numerous uncontested signs point to the fact that the majority of people in England and France would rather go ahead and get it over now than wait and endure this nervous strain. As Leon Bailby exclaims in his newspaper Le Jour:

"Everywhere in France, people are saying it is better now to finish it once and for all while the chances favor us. Suppose we gave up Danzig, Poland, Rumania and Jugoslavia? We would be obliged in six or 12 months to go to battle with an enemy doubled in strength."

This sentiment is paralleled throughout the British public. At the same time, not only Poland, but Rumania, Turkey, Greece and Portugal are chiming a remarkable chorus against the Bolshevik-Nazi combination, while Franco Spain is visibly withdrawing from the axis, and Japan completely withdrawn.

The Nazis and Bolsheviks together promise to become the most unpopular group the modern world has ever known.

All these facts, it is felt here, are bound to have some effect upon Hitler, and there still exists therefore a faint and remote prospect that he might make a last minute halt.

INCOMES CLIMB

American Employes Get 5 Per Cent More; Investors Fall Behind.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Income received by American employes for the first seven months of the year increased five per cent over the corresponding 1938 period, the commerce department reported today, but investors' income declined.

The nation's total income from all sources for the seven months was $37,985,000,000, a gain of three per cent over last year.

or the equally tortuous highway routes to Bucharest and Budapest.

The Latvian legation appeared to be in a state of seige as hundreds of persons tried desperately to arrange transportation out of the country by way of Riga for their wives and children.

Trains and automobiles arriving in Warsaw from frontier regions afforded spectacles similar to those in Prague a year ago when thousands of men, women and children, laden with baskets and bundles of clothing, were fleeing from the Germans.

In many corridor towns the only signs of life were the long columns of troops tramping toward the frontier, singing their marching songs.

American authorities in Poland were faced with the stupendous task of getting their nationals to places of safety.

From 600 to 800 Americans were registered at the United States consulate, but it was said there might be as many as 30,000 in all asking for aid.

The relatively small number registered included only a handful of native-born Americans of American parentage, the remainder being native-born Americans of Polish parentage who returned here to live when Marshal Pilsudski consolidated the republic.

HOW CAN I GET A LOAN OF $100-$200-$300 AT LOW COST?

IF you want to get a loan at the lowest cost, there are three things that you should do.

1. Insist on being told what rate of interest you are asked to pay for your loan.
2. Compare rates and terms. Then get your loan where you pay the lowest interest charge.
3. Take only as long to repay your loan as you really need.

Many loan companies charge the maximum rate permitted by the Ohio small loan law (3% per month on loans up to $300 and 8% per annum on balances above $300.) There are other companies which charge less than this lawful maximum. At Household Finance you pay only 2% per month on loans of $20 to $300 and 6% per annum on balances above $300. These charges—the lowest we have ever offered—are actually ⅓ below the lawful maximum.

There are three reasons why we can make loans at these low rates: (1) We do a large volume of business which reduces our expenses. (2) Our 60 years of experience makes possible more efficient operation and lower costs. (3) We have access to large amounts of money to lend to our customers.

Advance payment reduces the cost of your loan proportionately since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2% per month on loans up to $300 and 6% per year on balances above $300 up to $500. These rates are ⅓ less than the lawful maximum.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, AUGUST 28, 1939.

Seems odd how easy it is to borrow money if you don't need it.

Conditions in Europe having been such as they were last week, discussion of the weather has been sadly neglected.

Recent mention of Civil war veterans—all above 90—referred to them as "aging," while a youthful reporter told of an "elderly" 55-year-old accident victim—indicating that it's all in the way you look at it.

Anniversary of the Red Cross

WHILE world thought has been concentrated on threats of war, with hot passion flaring throughout Europe, it seems timely to recall that a steadily strengthening movement, devoted to helpful service, is this year marking its 75th anniversary.

The Red Cross, now world-wide in scope, is the outgrowth of a meeting held in Geneva in 1864 when representatives of twenty-five governments met and signed treaties providing that all sanitary supplies, ambulances, surgeons, nurses, medical attendants, sick and wounded should be considered neutral and not subject to attack in war.

Since that time the Red Cross has extended its work and influence into 61 countries, with 3,176 chapters in the United States totaling membership above five million, and has expanded its service to meet peace-time needs as well as to function efficiently upon fields of battle, relieving suffering and allaying distress without regard to friendships or enmities.

Today the Red Cross is accepted as a vital auxiliary of government. It is so much taken for granted that people sometimes forget that it must be supported by memberships and individual contributions.

Calling all vacationers! Come on home, the weather here is probably finer than any you've found on the trip.

Economic Warfare In Progress

THE totalitarian states are already waging war, says Henry F. Grady, assistant secretary of state. It is an economic war. It shuts them off from the nations like ours with a free economy, and apparently nothing can be done about it.

The United States and other free governments have no prejudice against "totalitarian economics" as such, he says, if any other country wants to indulge in such a philosophy. But they make it impossible for us to deal with them, because their economic philosophy is founded on war whereas ours is founded on peace. Thus American efforts to deal normally with Italy and Germany, to mutual benefit, have run into a stone wall.

Slogans are made to fit the immediate need, like "A war to save the world for democracy."

Many Are Still Uneducated

THE EDUCATION of many millions of Americans is still "below the safety line for this yet democratic republic," says Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina. There is too much "inequality of opportunity" and millions are still uneducated.

American education is better and more general than ever before. It is incomparably superior to the education that prevailed when a group regarded as "typical" wrote the Constitution of the United States. That document has been called by a famous Englishman "the greatest document ever struck off in a given time by the hand and brain of man."

But those Fathers of the Constitution were chosen men. Public schools did not exist in their time, and when adopted later were at first regarded as socialistic, an outrageous burden on taxpayers and a menace to the privileged class.

It has since been learned that education develops the powers of an individual or a nation and is the best bulwark of democracy.

One writer suggests that "reading is the modern substitute for thinking"—but a mixture of the two is not to be scoffed at.

Short Way to Alaska

WARREN G. MAGNUSON, chairman of the United States section of the British Columbia-Alaska highway commission, is just back from an all-day flight from White Horse, N. Y., to Vancouver. He says he believes a much shorter route has been found for the proposed highway than was previously thought possible.

There seems to be a sort of natural trench in Central British Columbia and Yukon Territory, which will make it possible to cut the road to 2,100 miles. Once started, the highway could probably be completed within two years, if construction could be started at the same time at different points along its length, Mr. Magnuson believes.

Whether the commission will be able to persuade the two governments to start soon on this road is not certain. But the idea of its eventual construction for purposes of communication, travel and defense is appealing.

There may be no "new sins," as has often been contended, but many more ways have been found to "raise hell."

Warns Against Dogs In Cars

THE state safety department of Oklahoma warns people against taking dogs with them in automobiles. In two recent cases mentioned, they caused fatal accidents. One dog suddenly jumped into the driver's lap and sent the car into a ditch, where it overturned. The other dog wagged his tail in the driver's face, momentarily blinding him so that he lost control of the car.

Thus "man's best friend" may become his worst enemy, say the traffic experts—merely because he doesn't understand consequences and acts unpredictably.

This is not true of all dogs. Many dogs seem to understand the need of self-control when riding in a car, or at least do what they are told. All others are dangerous.

It is now being confidently predicted that the man who is elected president in 1940 cannot be re-elected in 1944—going to show how some folks look ahead.

It now appears that only dark horses are being groomed for next year's presidential sweepstakes.

If the office is seeking the man Mr. Garner says he'll be out under the trees in his back yard.

Mussolini seems to be sensitive about mention of his age—but Time will scarcely be fooled.

Listen, World!

Let's Shed the Sister Act!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

CAN YOU stand a surprise—a big one? Then brace the chin, for here it comes. Recently, in a Young America forum which is our editorial pride and delight, the following question was asked both Oldsters and Youngsters . . .

"CAN PARENTS AND CHILDREN BE PALS?"

These big modern days, we naturally expected an overwhelmingly affirmative answer, particularly from Mom and Dad. Imagine our amazement when, in the thousands of letters received, 87% of the Parents said—"NO THEY CAN'T . . . AND WE WOULDN'T WANT TO BE IF WE COULD!"

Lawsa-massy, what was happening? Learned Dons had been knocking this palsy-walsy theory plenty, but never before had the Parents themselves agreed. But now it appears that the Old Folks themselves are challenging their own regime . . . giving their own union the Bronx cheer! As is shown in this typical letter from Mrs. Earl T. Wilson, of 222 South Eighth St., La Crosse, Wisconsin . . .

Says she:

"We parents have made a lot of mistakes in the past, but I doubt if we ever started anything as silly and dangerous as this present fad of 'being pals with our little ones.' I admit it seems a beautiful idea. And a fine friendship between the two generations is not only possible but essential in every happy home. But that's entirely different from this 'palsy walsy' plan which would have the two generations share every interest and attitude. That plan is actually alienating youngsters and breaking up homes.

"There was a time when parents were far too solemn and stern—too burdened by responsibility to enjoy their children. Then someone suggested that parents should stay young with their children — which sounded fine, but proved to be anything but in many cases. For thousands of parents swung to the other extreme. They threw away all restraints and Went Riddle in wholesale lots. Today we have a breed of pleasure-mad parents who are intent on staying young at any cost, and pretend they are doing it for their children's sake!

"Study the hotel lobbies . . . the summer resorts. Watch the 'youthful grandmas' — their raddled old flesh smeared with rouge, their poor old bones tricked out in baby clothes—rushing off to dances and bridge clubs, cigarettes between their upper and lower plates. Or fathers prancing around like yearlings!

"Do children like such antics? They do NOT! Watch any sensitive adolescent squirm while her mother simpers—'Isn't it just too, too folish! Nobody ever thinks I'm Ruthie's mother . . . they ALWAYS take us for sisters!'

"Children do not want their parents to be their pals. They can choose their pals from their own ranks. They wish their parents to be honest-to-goodness fathers and mothers . . . 'home folks' to whom they can go for sympathy and guidance; can respect and admire.

La Crosse, Wis.

There—if we know our human nature—is a letter which will be broadcast—and HOW! And here's one gray-haired "Mom" who endorses its every word, and blesses its sane writer.

So shed the Sister Act, ladies—AND BE YOUR AGE! Believe it or not, it pays far bigger dividends.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Aug. 28, 1919

McClelland Bros., 70 North Main street, announced decision to discontinue grocery business.

J. H. Rohrer purchased home under construction on Parkwood boulevard.

Miss Myrtle Deffenbaugh and Albert J. Warne were married by Rev. Sager Tryon.

Josephine Bushnell entertained fifty little friends at a lawn party at her home on Park avenue west.

Aultman & Taylor men's chorus enjoyed outing at the Pulver farm.

Return of Carl McVey, who was visiting in California, was delayed by railroad strike.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Aug. 28, 1934

Congressman Charles West and Mrs. Edith Metcalfe of Mansfield were named fro mthe 17th district to the Democratic state executive committee.

William H. Stentz, St. Louis, former Mansfielder, was visiting old friends here.

William Kneeland, city police officer, returned to work after being ill 86 days.

Mrs. W. H. Ailer, 202 South Mulberry street, learned of the death of her mother, Mrs. Lulu Bortel at Springfield.

Arnold Lehnhart, Mansfield, spent August at Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On August 28, 1833, the British parliament outlawed slavery in the empire. About 700,000 slaves were liberated at a cost of about 20,000,000 pounds.

Timely Editorial

Amazing Brain.

The professor emeritus of neurology of the University of Chicago, Dr. C. Judson Herrick, discusses in the Scientific Monthly the complexity of the human brain:

"If all the equipment of the telegraph, telephone and radio of the North American continent could be squeezed into a half-gallon cup, it would be less intricate than the three pints of brains that fill your skull and mine."

If the intercranial structure of the ordinary mortal is as complicated as all that, think what it must be within the noggins of Corcoran, Cohen, Ickes and Murphy, who do all the thinking for the New Deal!—New York Sun.

Health And Diet

Defend Child Against Typhoid.

—By DR. CLENDENING

TWO DISEASES, once dreaded scourges, have now almost disappeared. One we have discussed—diphtheria. The second is typhoid fever.

To anyone born after 1910, the world is a very different place in the late summer or fall of the year. He misses what the older generation took as a matter of course—reports of typhoid in the neighborhood. Here, there, everywhere over a city were reports of cases of fever in children and young adults.

Nobody was safe, except those who had had the disease. Nobody was safe because everywhere drinking water or milk was contaminated by flies.

The water looked all right; it smelt all right. Nobody could tell good water from bad water. The farmer would show a glass of water from his well. It sparkled in the sunshine—clear as crystal. No taste, no odor of stagnation. No, sir—nobody could tell him that was infected. Yet, there were maybe a case or two of typhoid in his own family from drinking that very water.

Great Reduction.

In 1905 there were nearly ten thousand deaths from typhoid fever in the United States. In 1938 there were 248.

The first great step in preventing typhoid, as well as other dysentery diseases, was to filter the drinking water. In 1893, Robert Koch, the great bacteriologist, was asked to determine why cholera was prevalent in Hamburg, when a neighboring city, Altona, was free of outbreaks.

Both cities are located on the river Elbe and both used its water for drinking. The skeptics thought that if cholera and typhoid were water borne, as the bacteriologists insisted, both cities should have the same incidence.

Koch was not content with showing that Altona's water was filtered while Hamburg's was not. He isolated cholera germs from the Elbe. Then he showed that they were present in the water mains of Hamburg, but not present in the mains of Altona. Then he clinched the argument by showing that the microbe was absent from the filtered water of Altona, but present in the unfiltered water.

Due to Control.

There is no doubt that the greatest reduction in typhoid incidence is due to municipal and public health control of the water and milk supply. But we cannot rely on this. Exposure occurs in many ways. The New York health authorities have often warned against bathing in the contaminated waters around New York. The typhoid bacilli lurk in various places and many slips occur which allow typhoid to get into the drinking water or food.

In Montreal, in the summer of 1927, the raw milk was allowed to be distributed without adequate pasteurization. Over 5,000 cases of typhoid developed in six months.

The only sure method of prevention is for each person to acquire individual immunity by typhoid vaccine. Three doses are given at about five-day intervals.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—In the last delivery today four letters were dropped on my desk. One of these was from a woman in Kansas, who says that every night she reads the column "By George Loane Tucker."

It was my column all right, but not my name. People often ask me if my middle name isn't Loan. They want to know if I am the son or any relation to George Loan Tucker, the motion picture producer.

No, I'm not. George Loan Tucker was a great name in the industry, and anyone would be proud to be identified with him. But, so far as I know, there is no connection, and I will admit it just to keep the record straight.

The second letter was for Mr. Ray Tucker, the political columnist in Washington. It was addressed to "Man About Manhattan" at my address, and I have forwarded it on to Ray. I hope he gets it.

The third letter was Mr. R. Tucker, and it began, "Dear Bob, I am having a little party, etc." I still haven't made up my mind whether to attend.

But the fourth letter was exactly right. It was "George Tucker, Associated Press, 50 Rockefeller Plaza, New York." But there wasn't much of a thrill to this letter. As a matter of fact, it wasn't a letter. It was simply a statement from the telephone company, saying so much was due on a certain date, etc. Many more days like this and my secretary is going to be unemployed.

* * *

DUE to map revisions, bargains are available all over New York to anyone wishing a fine world atlas. The most expensive maps and geographic tomes on Europe go begging in the windows of Rockefeller Center. One such place has a sign which says you should thank Mr. Hitler for this fine opportunity to get maps and atlases which are "almost" accurate. The reductions amount to about 70 per cent.

Speaking of Europe reminds me of the way old world names continue to reflect current events. There is an Italian restaurant in New York called "The Brenner Pass." Another place to dine, but Irish, is "The Blarney Stone." And in West 14th street is a little hole in the wall featuring mutton stew whose sign is the appeasement umbrella of Mr. Chamberlain and whose name is The Prime Minister.

* * *

SAUNTERING slowly in the direction of "21" last night was George Jean Nathan, the critic, a red carnation, as always, in his lapel. Where he gets them I don't know. You can't buy them in New York now. There haven't been any for six weeks, and it will probably be another month before they make their appearance in the florist shops. The florists say they close up too easily in hot weather. They don't last.

Another admirer of the lapel blossom is George Alfred, who conducts a riding academy three days a week, teaches a large men's Bible class each Sunday morning (he motors 55 miles up country to meet with this class) and works for a film company in between. He is the fellow who once went from Bar Harbor, Maine, to New Orleans in a rowboat, accompanied only by his dog, a big black and white setter. Along with the oars he had a sail and an outboard motor.

Daily Bible Thought

Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.—Matt. 5:11-12.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—What Roosevelt thinks of war and its relation to domestic economics was graphically described by him in a recent talk with an old friend.

This friend, a middle-of-the-road Democrat who helped nominate and elect the president, went in to see him to voice what many conservative Democrats have felt: that the country needs a moratorium on reform. In a heart-to-heart talk, he counseled Roosevelt to "ease up" on congress and "let things ride quietly for a while."

"People are tired of change," the friend argued. "They want to be let alone."

Roosevelt's reply, briefly summarized, follows:

"I agree with you on the desirability of peace and quiet. No one wants that more than I. I have been fighting this battle for a long time and I can assure you I would like nothing better than to sit back, fold my hands and take it easy.

"But you don't seem to realize that with world conditions as they are, we can't stand still and do nothing. We have got to keep moving forward if we are to save democracy—if we are going to save economic and political liberty.

"You must understand that war in Europe will mean the complete collapse of private economic enterprise there. As a matter of fact, private enterprise has almost gone already in Germany and Italy, and entirely in Russia. Private economic enterprise is a luxury in this age of super-nationalistic powers.

* * *

Soviet Revolution.

THE Russian revolution set in motion forces and influences that are sweeping the world. In the 20's, Italy went Fascist; in the '30's, Germany went Nazi. Suppose all of Europe shifts from a system of free private enterprise to these other systems. This is certain if there is a war, and it may happen anyway.

"The United States could not escape the effects of such a change, either politically, socially or economically. We would be confronted with a titanic war of ideas. We have millions of dispossessed, jobless and hopeless people. They would be easy prey to the illusions and promises of these nationalistic systems. Look what happened in Italy and Germany.

"We have to put our house in order to meet the attack of these foreign systems. We have got to give our people a stake in our system of free economic enterprise so they will be willing to defend it and fight for it. We must prepare to meet the great test that is approaching.

"That is why we can't sit down and fold our hands and take things easy. To do that is to invite certain destruction of the liberties we cherish. If we want to preserve Americanism as we know it and want it, we have got to take protective measures now. Standing still or turning back the clock won't do."

* * *

New Dealers In Crisis.

THE Roosevelt administration is all hustle and bustle about Europe now, but here is where those most concerned in high official places were when the crisis first broke:

The president was sunning himself on a cruiser off Canada. Cordell Hull, secretary of state, was golfing at White Sulphur Springs. Postmaster General Jim Farley was receiving the benediction of the Pope in Rome. Frank Murphy, attorney general, was taking a rest on the orders of his doctor at swank Bailey Beach, Newport, R. I.

Harry Hopkins, secretary of commerce, was undergoing an overhauling at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. Henry Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury, was enjoying the blue waters of the French Riviera. Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, was at his old home in Iowa. Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, was motoring in New York and New England.

Only Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior; Harry Woodring, secretary of war, and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison were laboring in the vineyard of the government.

Thus the New Deal, famed champion of the underdog, walked into a crisis that may throw millions of men into battle.

* * *

War Conferences.

SECRET conferences being held at the state department with the heads of different government bureaus deal chiefly with softening the effect of war upon the United States when it breaks in Europe.

One important plan is to protect U. S. stock exchanges from the immediate withdrawal of European cash, which would send stock and bond quotations to record lows. To offset this, stock exchanges will be closed immediately in case of war.

Another important question is the movement of U. S. naval vessels, how many ships to send further into the Pacific, and how many to leave around the Panama Canal and U. S. islands in the Caribbean.

The Navy probably will send ships immediately to stand guard over Bermuda, the Bahamas, Jamaica, the French and British West Indies—not for the purpose of helping the French and British, but to prevent Italian and German bases from being established on any of these islands.

In the event of war the president expects to call congress within six weeks, or less, to ask for revision of the neutrality law to permit, among other things, the shipment of airplanes to France and Great Britain.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

COLONEL Louis Johnson, slave-driving Assistant Secretary of War, has done so well his job of planning for the mobilization of industry in wartime that very little work remains. The plan should click into action almost automatically . . . Whether right or wrong, the British are not particularly worried about submarines this time. They place great confidence in their submarine detectors. Airplane bombardments of merchant shipment will be far more worrisome . . . Diplomatic dispatches received here report that Hitler is placing chief reliance on the war advice of General Goering, who tells him Britain and France can be brought to their knees by quick air raids. He also advises that the German air force could sink the British merchant fleet . . . War department surveys show that the need of skilled mechanics in the event of war will be the chief problem facing the United States.

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. Which is colder the north or south pole?
2. Do elephants shed their tusks?
3. What city in Europe is called the "Bride of the Sea?"

Words of Wisdom.

Dissipation is absolutely a labor when the round of Vanity Fair has once been made; but fashion makes us think lightly of the toil, and we describe the circle as mechanically as a horse in a mill. —Zimmerman.

Hints on Etiquette.

You should be encouraged to read—especially the very best literature—but don't become absorbed in a book when you are out in company and should be talking.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. The south pole.
2. An elephant's tusks are merely elongated incisor teeth and if they are broken they never grow again. They are preceded by milk teeth, however, that they lose early in life, like humans.
3. Venice, Italy.

The Northern Lights

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

JUST after twilight I noticed a light, silvery brightness along the northern ridge. At sundown there had been no clouds of smoke but now the whole northern ridge was ablaze with metallic brilliance. I saw two thin pillars of light shoot upward from the highest curve and fade again. Then I was confident that what I saw was the aurora borealis.

We gathered at the children's window at bedtime. The moonlight was brilliant in the southwest, but it encroached but little upon the northern spectacle.

"See that purple bunch with red around the edges," remarked another. "It pulls apart like curtains. It almost scares me—don't it scare you Daddy? I never saw anything like this before, did you?"

"Yes," I told them. "When I was little like you and lived among the mountains, my father and oldest brother came home one night and awoke us all to see the wonderful wine and blue and scarlet lights in the sky. We stood on the porch of our little home and the whole sky seemed ablaze. My father was grave and silent, and my mother wept, I remember. They told each other that it was a sign from heaven—that such a sign had come before the Civil war—and now another war was coming. The crimson streaks were human blood, the rolling blue was smoke of many battles."

"But was it true?" demanded my little son.

"Nobody has ever been quite sure what causes the northern lights," said I. "The theory is that it is affected by spots upon the sun. It is clearest in the far north and there are similar lights around the south pole, too. It is one of Nature's unsolved mysteries."

We watched the animated light roll clouds of shifting color toward the zenith, and one youngster heaved a big, tired sigh.

"There are so many things to find out, in this world," was his remark.

"Yes," I agreed. 'And many of them we'll never know. But that doesn't make them less wonderful."

"Anyway we won't be frightened," sagely said the children to each other. 'If anything thrilling happens, Daddy, you wake us up."

Salad Is A Meal In Itself

Certainly a salad can be "a meal in itself"—nutritious, appetizing and quite satisfying! But, with such extra as soup, a hot bread, and a glass of milk—your guests or family can face the hours ahead with calmness. The recipes suggested here can be varied in as many ways as you wish.

JELLIED VEGETABLE LOAF

3½ teaspoons gelatine
5 tablespoons cold water
1 cup hot water
1½ tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup vinegar
3 small tomatoes
1 cup cottage cheese
1 cup sliced cucumber
Lettuce or other greens

Sprinkle the gelatine over the cold water, add the hot water and stir until the gelatine is dissolved. Add sugar, salt and vinegar and chill until mixture begins to congeal. Pour ⅓ of the gelatine mixture into a loaf pan which has been rinsed with cold water. Add the sliced tomatoes, sprinkle with salt and press down. Dot with spoonfuls of cottage cheese and cover with cucumber which has been sprinkled with salt. Pour the remaining gelatine mixture over the top. Chill. When firm unmold, cut in slices and place on lettuce or other greens. Serve with mayonnaise or salad dressing. Serves six.

POTATO AND HAM SALAD IN TOMATOES

6 tomatoes
Salt
2 teaspoons vinegar
¼ teaspoon celery seed
⅛ teaspoon grated onion
¾ to 1 cup thick sour cream
1 cup diced cooked potatoes
1 cup diced cooked ham
Lettuce or other greens

Peel the tomatoes. Cut a small slice off the stem end, scoop out pulp, chop and drain. Sprinkle pulp and inside of omatoes with salt. Add the vinegar, celery seed and onion to the sour cream and season with salt. Add potatoes, ham and tomato pulp and fill the tomato shells with the mixture. Place on lettuce or other greens. Serves six.

CUCUMBER BOAT SALAD

6 small cucumbers
Salt and pepper
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
1¼ cups cottage cheese
Lettuce or other greens
Paprika

Cut off a slice lengthwise of cucumbers and scoop out the inside, leaving as thin a shell as possible. Dice the pulp, sprinkle with salt and pepper and drain. Mix the well drained horseradish and the cottage cheese and fold in the cucumber. Add more seasoning if desired. Pile in the cucumber shells and place on lettuce or other greens. Sprinkle paprika over the top Serve with mayonnaise or salad dressing. Serves six.

TUNA FISH MOUSSE WITH ASPARAGUS

2 teaspoons gelatine
3 tablespoons cold water
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup chopped celery
1—13 ounce can tuna fish
½ cup whipping cream
Lettuce or other greens
Cooked asparagus tips
French dressing

Sprinkle the gelatine over the cold water and dissolve over hot water. Stir into the mayonnaise and cool until it begins to congeal. Add celery and finely flaked tuna fish and, if desired, a little salt. Fold in the whipped cream. Place in a small loaf pan which has been rinsed with cold water and chill until firm. Unmold, slice and serve on lettuce or other greens. Garnish with asparagus tips which have been marinated in the French dressing. Serves six.

SOUR CREAM SALMON AND CUCUMBER SALAD

2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ to ¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup thick sour cream
1 1-pound can salmon
Lettuce or other greens

Add the lemon juice and salt to the sour cream and mix well. Add the flaked salmon and the cucumber and toss together lightly. Serve immediately on lettuce or other greens. Serves six.

WEEP FOR LOVE + + + + +

By RUBY M. AYRES

(Copyright, 1939)

CHAPTER XXI

Was it fair to condemn Kim just because of Penelope and because of Roy's idly repeated gossip? Elizabeth realized painfully that it was not as if she and Penelope had a great affection for each other as some sisters had.

Then suddenly she knew that it was really nothing to do with Penelope, but that it was her own bitter jealousy which was driving her, and that it would have been the same no matter what other girl had once shared Kim's affection.

Was this how people always felt when they were in love? Somehow, she could not believe that any other woman's heart could ache so intolerably as hers was aching now, just as she found it impossible to believe it could be true when people said that love died, that a day always came when it no longer mattered, when the pain had gone and one merely felt a little ashamed to look back and remember.

* * *

She could not visualize a day when the sight of this man and the sound of his name could fail to stir her senses, when now the very strength of her love for him could make her cruel, could make her long to know that he was suffering too.

And then suddenly, as the music stopped, she felt his arm tighten around her and, before she could protest, he had swept her out of the crowded room into the comparatively deserted foyer.

Dazed and breathless, she raised bewildered eyes to his face.

"Don't quarrel with me, Elizabeth," Lawless said with deep intensity. "Tell me what I have done—you mean everything in the world to me—only tell me what I have done!"

But before there was time for her to reply, or even to realize his words, Roy came helter-skelter after them.

"Hi, you! Stealing my partner!" he said. He gave Lawless a playful dig. "Haven't you got enough beautiful ladies of your own without sneaking mine?" And he dragged Elizabeth away.

"Like his cheek!" he protested. "Though I can't blame him for trying to give Mrs. Desmond the slip." He laughed. "She and I nearly ended in a free fight. Hanged if I know why on earth she wanted to dance with me!"

He looked comically down at Elizabeth.

"Are you tired?" he asked quickly. "You're quite pale."

"I think I'm always pale," Elizabeth said. She hunted for a powder-puff.

"What time is it?" she asked.

"One o'clock. Want to go home?"

"I think I ought to."

"All right, I'll just get the bill. Enjoying the evening?" he asked hopefully.

She nodded.

"Very much indeed. It's done me a lot of good, and I've been thinking. I might come to High Chimneys again, after all—if I'm invited, I mean."

He looked delighted.

"I'll see you are invited," he declared.

He tried to hold her hand going home in the car, but she gently repulsed him, and he said with a long-suffering sigh:

"There I go, you see! Give me an inch and I take an ell."

Before they parted, he had extracted a promise that the visit to High Chimneys should be as soon as possible.

"Next week?"

"If your mother will have me."

"Oh, she'll have you right enough!"

"Then good night and thank you so very much."

Roy blew her a kiss as she vanished into the house.

"Good night—and bless you!"

* * *

It seemed a long way up the stairs to her room. Elizabeth felt that she had suddenly grown unutterably weary, every step was an effort.

She crept past Penelope's door, but when her own was shut and locked behind her, she made no effort to undress. She stood in front of the long mirror, staring at her reflection with sombre eyes.

She was looking weary now. Even her dress seemed tumbled and unbeautiful, with its hurriedly mended hem dejectedly trailing the floor.

"Most things can be mended," Kim Lawless had said, and now in her heart Elizabeth answered him. "Not everything."

"You mean everything in the world to me."

She could hear him saying that, too, and for a moment her sensitive face softened wonderfully before quickly the unkind thought followed. Perhaps he had once said the same thing to Penelope. Back came the burning jealousy and youthful sense of outrage like a child who feels it has been ill-treated. She wept as she tore the frock from her slender shoulders and crept into bed to sob herself to sleep.

At breakfast the following morning there was no Penelope.

"She said her head ached, and so I advised her not to get up," Miss Thornley told Elizabeth. "You might go and see how she is presently and try to cheer her up."

Miss Thornley always made the same remark about trying to cheer Penelope up, usually in the discouraged voice of one who knows the futility of her request.

"Did you enjoy yourself last night?" she asked.

"Very much."

She sighed, wondering whether her responsibilities were to continue indefinitely." I was so different when I was a girl," she thought impatiently.

Elizabeth heard the sigh and roused herself.

"Roy wants me to go back to High Chimneys next week."

Miss Thornley beamed.

"Now, that's a splendid idea. It will do you all the good in the world. I hope you have accepted."

"He said that his mother would write me."

"Such a delightful family, the Selbys," Miss Thornley said, though she knew very little of them. "I only wish you could persuade Penelope to go with you. I am sure Mrs. Selby would be kind enough to extend the invitation."

THEATERS

MOVIE stars have had their European vacations shattered before by war rumors but this is the first time since the World war that they've stampeded the shipping lines for passage home. Among those caught abroad are Norma Shearer, Tyrone Power and his bride Annabella, Madeliene Carroll, George Raft, Edward G. Robinson, Gene Autry, Gloria Stuart and Constance Bennett. But if there actually is a war some of Hollywood's best men players might be involved. Think of them—Erroll Flynn, Charles Boyer, Leslie Howard, Brian Aherne, Cary Grant, Richard Green, Charles Laughton, Victor McLaglen, Basil Rathbone, Ray Milland, George Sanders, Herbert Marshall, Ronald Colman and a half dozen others. And there are even more character men who are English.

* * *

Plays Eurasian.

Some of the most exotically beautiful women in the world are the half-castes in Oriental countries. This is especially true of the Eurasians, one of which is portrayed by Hedy Lamarr in "Lady of the Tropics." French by instincts and English by training, she is bound to Indo-China by the taint of her blood. Miss Lamarr's beauty takes on an Oriental cast with the clothes she wears for the role. Robert Taylor is co-starred with her and they make a handsome pair. The picture is an Ohio attraction.

* * *

Important Legs.

In "Million Dollar Legs" it keeps you guessing to know whether the legs are those of a horse or a co-ed—that is if you can forget the co-eds long enough to look at the horse's. This is a campus story and this time the honor of the school isn't dependent upon a football game but a horse race. The students revolt against a domineering school board and take matters into their own hands when they pawn all of their portable belongings and place the bankroll on the nose of a 20-to-1 shot. Betty Grable, Joyce Mathews, Jackie Coogan and Larry Crabbe head the cast. The Madison is also showing "The Angels Wash Their Faces" with Ann Sheridan and the Dead End Kids.

* * *

Attractive Bill.

Two attractive picture stories make up the bill at the Ritz for three days starting tomorrow. "Stagecoach," one of the best of the glorified westerns, tells a stirring story and has a moving climax. John Wayne, who has been in ordinary Westerns for a number of years, crashes through into the ranks of the big stars with his performances in it. Claire Trevor, Andy Devine, George Bancroft, Louise Platt and Tim Holt head a long cast. On the same bill is "Five of a Kind," in which the Dionne quintuplets disport themselves. Jean Hersholt, Cesar Romero and Claire Trevor are also seen.

* * *

An Old Question.

Warren Hull, master of ceremonies on the "Good News" program, takes a prominent part in "Should a Girl Marry?" which deals with the old question of whether a girl's past should mar her future. Anne Nagel is seen as the girl, while Weldon Heyburn plays the blackmailer and Mayo Methot his wife. The picture is one of two attractions at the Park, the other being a re-issue of "Cavalcade" the epic which presents a moving panorama of England as told through the lives of one family.

MARGARET HUBER AND HAROLD STACKLIN WED

Couple Married Saturday at St. Mary's Church in Shelby; Taking Motor Trip Through Michigan.

ST. MARY'S church in Shelby was decorated with baskets of pink and white gladioli and asters, palms and two seven-branch candelabra for the wedding of Miss Margaret E. Huber and Harold R. Stacklin at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. Thomas Horner sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" before the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Michael McFadden.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Clarence E. Huber, 256 West Fifth street, was attired in a formal gown of white slipper satin for her wedding. The dress was fashioned with a fitted bodice, long leg-o-mutton sleeves and a full skirt ending in a short train. Her fingertip net veil was held in place by a headpiece covered with lillies-of-the-valley. She carried a bridal bouquet of gardenias and lillies-of-the-valley. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Attendant From Mansfield.

Miss Louise Enderle, who was the bride's only attendant, wore a gown of pink and blue marquisette over a pink taffeta slip and a small colonial hat of matching materials. Her bouquet was of yellow Johanna Hill roses.

Mr. Stacklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stacklin, 102 West Park drive, Shelby, chose Elmer Mott of that city to be his best man. Richard R. Hartman and Virgil Hartman, jr., cousins of the bride, were the ushers.

Mrs. Huber appeared at her daughter's wedding wearing a gown of black marquisette with stitched taffeta trim and black and white accessories. Mrs. Stacklin wore blue lace with Copen blue and white accessories for the occasion. Both women wore gardenias shoulder corsages.

Will Reside Here.

After the wedding, members of the bridal party and immediate families gathered at the Colonial Guest House on the Wooster road for breakfast.

Later in the day, the couple left on a motor trip through northern Michigan and Canada. They will return to Mansfield about Sept. 10 and reside with Mrs. Huber at the West Fifth street address. For traveling Mrs. Stacklin wore a teal blue dress with wine accessories. Her shoulder corsage was taken from the center of her bridal bouquet.

The bride, a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, is employed at the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company. Mr. Stacklin was graduated from Shelby high school and is now affiliated with the Shelby Salesbook company.

Coming Nuptials Told Yesterday at Afternoon Tea

Friends of Miss Elizabeth Anderson learned of her approaching marriage to Elsworth C. Donnon when her mother, Mrs. R. D. Anderson, and her sister, Miss Susan Anderson, honored her with a tea from 2 until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Susie Janie home on the Park avenue west road.

Miss Elizabeth, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Anderson, 174 Western avenue, and Mr. Donnon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Donnon, 427 Wayne street, will be married at 8 o'clock this Saturday morning at the United Presbyterian church with Rev. Henry Ford officiating. Miss Susan will be her sister's only attendant, and Mr. Donnon's brother, Richard, will be his best man.

When the 34 guests at yesterday's tea received miniature corsages, they discovered tiny scrolls, revealing the coming nuptials, attached to them. Miss Jane Tapper and Mrs. Elsie Hoppe presided at the tea table, which was decorated with appointments in shades of yellow and orchid. A bouquet of summer flowers and tall white tapers centered the table.

Later in the afternoon, the honoree received a linen gift from her mother and sister. Mrs. Kinsman Lamb, of Cleveland, Mrs. Walter Kerr of Ashland, Mrs. Robert Robnolt of Canton and Mrs. LeRoy Berg of Shelby were out-of-town guests in attendance at the tea.

Alice Kirkpatrick Marries In Mother's Wedding Gown

THE beautiful wedding gown made for Mrs. John B. Kirkpatrick was worn Saturday by her daughter, Alice, when she became the bride of Paul W. Deibner, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Diebner, of San Antonio, Tex.

The bride, who is well known here, was married at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kirkpatrick, 54 South Gamble street in Shelby. White gladioli, cosmos and gypsophilia decorated the home for the ceremony, which was read at 4 o'clock by Rev. M. P. Paetznick, pastor of the First Lutheran church in Shelby.

Miss Kirkpatrick was given in marriage by her father. Her bridal costume was of white silk mull over organdy. The floor length skirt of the gown was very full. Deep Chantilly lace trimmed the yoke and sleeves of the dress, and the bride wore a white satin sash at her waist. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and gypsophilia.

Following a reception at the family home, Mr. and Mrs. Deibner left on a short wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a soft wool frock of hyacinth blue with black accessories. After Sept. 1 the couple will be at home to friends at 234 Park avenue west.

Mrs. Deibner is a graduate of Lake Erie college and the Oberlin School of Commerce. She is the deputy county clerk of courts in this city, and is a member of the Alpha Pi Sigma sorority. Mr. Deibner is employed as a salesman for a Cleveland corporation.

Informally Speaking...

Monday, Aug. 28.

Lucy, dear:

Here I am writing you for the last time in August! It seems that this month has passed ever so quickly, and I'm afraid that its close is bringing the end of summer right along with it. . . .Already the mornings and evenings are quite cool—and even a little foggy. . . . Next Monday is Labor Day—after that all the stylish ladies will don their fall clothes. . . . and so summer will be a thing of the past all too soon.

* * * * *

Marianne

But in spite of what the calendar and other signs show, lots of folks are still enjoying their "summer" vacations. . . .I just received an interesting letter from Mrs. L. J. (Nell) Piller, who's traveling out west. . . .She wrote from Yellowstone National park that after traveling more than 1,200 miles through strange states seeing strange people she was overjoyed upon her arrival at Old Faithful lodge in the park to see two familiar faces Frances and Florence Conn from Mansfield! (You probably recall, Lucy, that I told you earlier this summer that the twins are working there during the vacation season.). . . .Mrs. Piller says that the girls will be coming back to Mansfield soon after Labor Day, when the park season closes. . . .After leaving Yellowstone, Mrs. Piller is planning to go to Manhattan Beach, Cal., where she will spend several months visiting with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Piller. . . .Incidentally, Mrs. Piller says she went through a snowstorm while crossing the Big Horn mountain in Wyoming, and that although the days in Yellowstone are very hot, the temperature at night drops to about 26 degrees—which I'd say is pretty chilly, wouldn't you, Lucy?

* * * * *

Mrs. C. C. Fish of Shelby is now champion of the women golfers at Westbrook Country club, where she won her final match Saturday. . . .And thereon hangs a tale, Lucy. . . . Just before the match began, Mrs. L. W. Olson gave Mrs. Fish a pair of lucky Indian bracelets to wear, and if you're superstitious, perhaps you'd like to think they were the cause of it all. . . .Mrs. Alan Tappan was runner-up.

* * * * *

I'M SURE you, as well as lots of Mansfielders, remember Aleen Williams, who formerly lived here. . . .She's just returned to Memphis, Tenn., where she will resume her course in nurses training at St. Joseph's hospital. . . .Aleen has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams, other relatives and friends in Mansfield and vicinity for the past three weeks.

* * * * *

By the way, Lucy, do you have as much trouble as most everyone else does with silk hose wearing out all too quickly? Well then, you'll be glad for this bit of good news—I've been trying out a new kind of stockings, which really wear a lot longer because of the secret process by which they're made. . . .These hose are dipped in a specially formulated liquid which seals the threads, making them more resistant to snags as well as to wear. . . .They really are a find, Lucy, not only because of their longevity, but also because they are quite sheer and come in many attractive shades.

* * * * *

* * * * *

You'll be interested in hearing that Mrs. Wayne Young is visiting here from Columbus, Ga. now. . . .She was formerly Isabel Bogan of this city, and she's staying at the home of her father, J. A. Bogan, and sister, Thelma, on Rowland avenue. . . .Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lewis have just returned from a vacation in California, the Pacific northwest and Victoria, B. C.

* * * * *

I guess that's about all the news for today, Lucy. Have a nice holiday week-end, and I'll write you again later.

Lovingly,

Marianne

Her bridal gown was of white moire taffeta, and the long train of her veil was made of Chantilly lace. A spray of orange blossoms held a net cap in place on her head. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and gardenias, and wore a single strand pearl necklace.

Miss Julia Ziegler, the bride's cousin, was the maid-of-honor. She was attired in a floor length jacket frock of green moire taffeta. She wore a green taffeta head band and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and gladioli. Ancil L. Lucas was his brother's best-man.

Mrs. Zeides wore a blue printed dress with navy blue accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Lucas was attired in a wine dress with matching accessories and a gardenia shoulder corsage.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Findlay, where Mr. Lucas is employed by the Cooper Rubber company. For traveling Mrs. Lucas wore a blue costume suit with white accessories. Both she and Mr. Lucas are graduates of Mansfield Senior high school. Before her marriage the bride was an employe of the Mansfield General hospital.

Out-of-town guests, who attended the wedding, were: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Evert Putman, Mr. and Mrs. William Fenntermaker and Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, all of Findlay; Mrs. Theo Osberg and daughters, Lois Ann and Dianna Jean of Sandusky.
